TRADITION AND HERITAGE

In the circle of the oldest campus edifices, poses tall against the sky a proud face in the epoch tradition of our University—stately Woodburn Hall. Alone it stands, amid victory and defeat, unwavering; recalling to each of us a fervent academic quest. Constant, it remains a vigil over the spirit of academic inquiry, and the pressing search into greater achievements.

But that tradition is more than just marbled temples wherein man can nurture his scholarly interests and ambitions and gather academic nutrition. Symbolically, it is the face of the Mountaineer—a stern visage, yet known to burst with uproarous approval in moments of glory. Its lifeline, though periodically replacing new blood as the old seeks new veins through graduation, flows smoothly through a proud heart.

PROGRESS AND DEVELOPMENT

As the University has moved through varying degrees of prosperity, from a few buildings to an educational giant standing by the Monongahela, it takes upon its countenance the facets of a living pulse—its cadence echoing through the hills the great heart steadily beating.

As the campus skyline broadens with the times, we are able to observe this growth, sometimes a part of us hazily glimpsed as our strides almost move hand in hand with its pace, sometimes more clearly seen from the safe distance that the years of "post schola" will afford us. From the groundbreaking of Martin Hall to the windswept sculptured edifice that now houses the Medical Science facilities, it has grown; haphazardly, leisurely, a moulding of tradition with brick, stone, ivy, and willing hearts.

OUR CAMPUS LIFE

A weekend fast and uninhibited; a rifle shot and tumultuous cheers around a bonfire; a troupe of male voices echoing into the late hours in tribute to their fraternal bonds; a crowded booth of collegiate faces, drowning out pop music with nonsensical phrases and trite clichés; a couple on a deserted library terrace at sunset, meandering down a quiet walk toward a serene goodnight. These are the varied faces of our campus life: somber, pathetic smiles and stern profiles caught in askew glances with pipe and lipstick noticeable. Matured in the wisdom of academic stimulations, these are more than just the faces of our campus life; these comprise of variable cross-section of that Utopia wherein dwells that race called humanity. Surely these faces should reflect a susceptibility to laugh, shout, and work with the stepped-up spirit of youthful expectations, destined with a vital cause.

"I just love my freshman beanie!"

FRESHMAN WEEK

The day was dark and rain had been pouring down for weeks. Arriving in Morgantown after the long pilgrimages to the academic mecca amid the beautiful West Virginia hills, bewildered and confused freshmen splashed toward their destinations—the cells known as dorms or the modern, spacious, fireproof rooming houses in the beautiful residential areas of a thriving metropolis.

After successfully storing away the provisions necessary for the next four years, the final farewells were bid, the last dollars of allowance were collected, and many a freshman watched through misty eyes as the old familiar family car sped off to better lands. Others shed few if any tears at this parting and quickly set off to conquer the campus in grand style. Doffing their beloved freshman beanie and name tag while wearing every high school ring and letter sweater available, they started, only to be confronted by a few self-assured, egotistical humans who were calling themselves Freshman Guides and insisted on herding every freshman off to one meeting or another.

Continuing on the confused cycle of attending convocations, taking tests, learning school songs and cheers, meeting strange faces and trying to remember familiar faces, standing in one line and then another, and attending reception after reception, many began to wonder about this experience of campus life. After stampeding through a week of intense activity, the freshmen could proudly consider themselves members of the University family.

REGISTRATION

As usual, the lines were long, the cards were many, the day was hot, and most were thoroughly confused. The task of becoming enrolled in an institution of higher learning remained a confused and time-consuming chore. Upperclassmen were involved in devising time-saving schemes while the bewildered freshmen were seeking advice at every turn.

After successfully gaining entrance to the Field House, one was confronted by one line after another, meeting the solemn faces of advisors, filling in one blank card after another, posing for a flattering portrait picture, resisting aggressive salesmen, and finally emerging into the clear air after parting with a sizeable number of hard-earned dollars. Finding the need for either rest or celebration upon successfully completing this harrowing task, it was off to bed or to one of the local pubs for a "quick one."

Issuing rush cards

Beginning with the obtaining of rush dates and culminating with the issuing of pledge pins, the ever-watchful eyes of IFC and Pan-hel were alert to the slightest infraction of the many rules established to regulate this madness known as Rush. The end of the period of parties, dinners, big smiles and firm handshakes, and the "where're you from, what's your major?" routine, brought sighs of relief from all the Greeks and shouts of joy from all the pledges, but moments of sadness to the rejected ones.

HOMECOMING

We had parties, we had week ends, but one of the biggest was Homecoming. Following in the tradition of the past, the festivities were officially opened by a colorful parade representing wasted hours of paper-stuffing and nail-pounding.

Saturday morning found everyone busily preparing for the coming round of cheers, receptions, and parties. The afternoon was filled with footballs, mums, and exuberant handshakes of renewing old acquaintances. After thirty minutes of hard-fought football, the queen, well protected by ROTC men armed with sabers, was presented to the crowd. An unfortunate second half of football followed this grand ceremony and all were content to forget about football and direct their attention toward those familiar faces whose names they couldn't remember and to make the rounds of the open houses.

After a thoroughly exhausting afternoon of shaking hands and "how are you, I haven't seen you in a long time," everyone settled down to a quiet evening of socializing. There were a few brave souls who still desired more action, and they boldly trudged down to the Mountainlair where an exciting dance was held. The activity of the night gradually lent itself to the well-deserved rest, with all thankful for an additional day of reprieve before the recommencing of classes.

MOUNTAINEER WEEKEND

This fun-filled week end was ushered in with the cool sounds of the Four Freshmen reverberating throughout the Mountainlair. The vote-winning efforts of the sorority girls were culminated on Friday night with the final voting. Saturday arrived with a few tradition-minded people donning the fashions of mountaineer days, representing weeks of non-shaving and days of dressmaking. Others made feeble attempts to attend the day's activity in hillbilly outfits carrying jugs filled with various spirited liquids. Despite a rather nondescript football game, the halftime show of bearded men and hoop-skirted women added color to an otherwise dark day. The queen made her triumphant ride into the stadium in true mountaineer style—a wagon full of hay pulled by a farm tractor. Negotiating the track around the field without difficulty, the queen and her court were met by a host of bearded admirers who presented them in the accepted manner with flowers and kisses.

Following the remaining portion of the football contest, the crowd flowed on to the nearest parties which continued into the night. For the steering committee and a few curious participants, the week end officially ended with an authentic mountaineer rock and roll dance at the 'Lair.

ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT

Red Brown, Director of Athletics, is putting West Virginia on the sports map as never before. National recognition and increased receipts have enabled vast improvements of West Virginia's athletic facilities. Brown is a member of two important national committees, the NCAA University-Division Tournament and the U. S. Olympic Association Basketball. Within the Southern Conference, he is on committees for officials, ways and means, and basketball. Red was appointed Director of Athletes at the University in 1954, succeeding Roy Hawley. Previously he was basketball and tennis coach here.

The Senior and Assistant Athletic Director, Lowry M. Stoops, is in his 35th year here. While a student here he participated in varsity basketball and other sports activities. After a two-year tour of Europe during World War I, Lowry returned to West Virginia to direct athletics at Weirton High School, New Cumberland High School, and West Liberty State College. He then returned to W.V.U. as Assistant Director.

The man in charge of the business end of sports is Charles S. Simmons. After serving as Ticket Manager since 1947, "Wink" was named Business Manager in 1955. A native of Morgantown, he was regarded as one of the greatest basketball players at Morgantown High.

Charles Hockenberry returned from W.Va. Tech in 1952 and took over the job of Assistant Business Manager. A three-sport athlete at the University, he sandwiched an army stretch between two phases of a minor league baseball career. After his last season in 1946, he returned to the University as a baseball coach.

Edgar Barrette joined the staff in 1951. He immediately put his former knowledge as a newspaperman to work and has come up with a very fine job as the W.V.U. Athletic Dept. Publicity Director.

The West Virginia University Athletic Council came into being in 1947. This was a result of an order by the Board of Governors of the University.

This council exists to take charge of and supervise the intercollegiate athletic program.

Ray O. Duncan, Dean of the School of Physical Education, is the Chairman of this council. The other three faculty members are Walter H. Jarecke, Professor of Education; Maurice G. Brooks, Wildlife Management; and Stephen F. Crocker, Professor of English.

The two alumni members are Dr. Jack T. Gocke, '38, and Richard A. Raese, '32.

Terps Trip Mounties 31-8

The morning of the opening day of the WVU 1960 grid season was gloomy—but not as gloomy as the evening. Eighteen thousand fans filed into the wet confines of Mountaineer Stadium to see their team defeated by a strong team hoping for National honors. That team was a powerful Maryland University Varsity.

In gaining an opening-day victory, the Terps also saw fit to injure seriously three front-line guards. Dave Santrock, Pete Tolley, and Keith Melenyzer were carried from the field with knee and ankle injuries.

An interception proved costly to the Mountaineers, but not as costly as two untimely fumbles.

Johnny Marra carried the ball to the 13-yard line during a WVU drive, only to see the pigskin squirt from his arms and fall under the Terps' Gary Collins. The Maryland team then went 87 yards in 7 plays with Collins catching a pass for the last 19 yards and a touchdown.

Maryland scored again in the first quarter, after marching 85 yards. Kenny Smith eluded the secondary for this score.

In the second quarter, the Terps could get no closer to the Mountie goal line than the 30. They then called on field goal expert Vince Scott to boot the ball. The pigskin sailed true and Maryland led 17-0.

Dale Evans then took over the belated Blue and Gold offense and directed the initial touchdown of the season. After passing and running the ball for 65 yards, Evans handed the ball to fullback Bob Benke, who charged his way over the goal line. Evans then passed to Eli Kasonovitch for the two-point conversion.

Another fumble by the Mounties around the mid-field stripe paved the way for another touchdown for the Terps after a scoreless third quarter.

In the last ten minutes of the game, Jan Davidson intercepted an Evans "desperation" pass, and scampered 28 yards to the Mounties' 2-yard line. From there, the Terps pushed the ball for the TD. The WVU defense then held and no more scoring occured.

Myers, Benke and Evans played outstanding games in the backfield and Ken Herock ran 48 yards after catching three aerials from the end position.

Gobblers Elude Mountie Muskets

The Gold and Blue left the confines of Mountaineer Field to invade and battle the Virginia Tech Gobblers in their opening conference game. Nineteen thousand fans entered the limits of Richmond to witness the action. Injuries, penalties and officials were the subjects of much conversation on the night following the game.

The Mounties lost the services of both Ray Borlie and Fred Adkins for the season. Ray, an experienced end who showed brilliant signs of a good season, and Fred, a two-way guard, were not expected to mend before the season was history. It might be said that a total of 120 yards were gained by the referees against the Gold and Blue, for as Corum would say, "We were a little ragged on timing."

In the scoreless first quarter, WVU had one touchdown nullified by a penalty. Later, Dale Evans reached the goal line but was short of a "TD" by an inch.

In the second and third quarters, the Gobblers scored twice on sustained drives. Their last two points in the final stanza came when Dale Evans was tackled in the end zone attempting to pass.

Coach Corum looked forward to much better offensive play while he felt that the defense improved markedly from the Maryland showing. Sophomore Don Myers was the eyecatching Mountie of the day, gaining 68 yards in 10 carries.

The passing attack was weak as the Gold and Blue completed one aerial after 13 attempts, and three of those attempts were intercepted.

Corum used 38 players in an attempt to season the inexperienced sophomores. As a matter of fact, these first-year men looked good as the sophomore-dominated second unit outgained the first team by a clear-cut margin.

Chicago Daily Tribune

Illini Annihilate Mounties 33-0

Illinois University wrathfully displayed it's characteristic Midwestern power as they rolled over West Virginia Varsity. Fortunately, this was only after an almost even first half.

In their first-half effort, the Mountaineers lost the services of four men. However only a shoulder injury to first-string center Charlie Lanasa proved to be serious.

In addition to holding the Illini to only one touchdown in the first two stanzas of play, the Blue and Gold varsity locked the door to their goal three times. To accomplish this, the Mounties took the ball on downs twice after the Big Ten Power had driven inside the 25-yard line.

It was only after the Mounties coughed up a costly fumble in their own territory, that the Illini cashed in on a couple of passes. These aerials put the ball on the five-yard marker where fullback Bill Brown tucked the pigskin between his arms and plunged over.

When the second half started, the fans saw two new teams on the gridiron. A fired-up Big Ten Conference Team and an injury-riddled, weary Southern Conference power. It wasn't long till the National Honors aspirant made the Mounties even more weary.

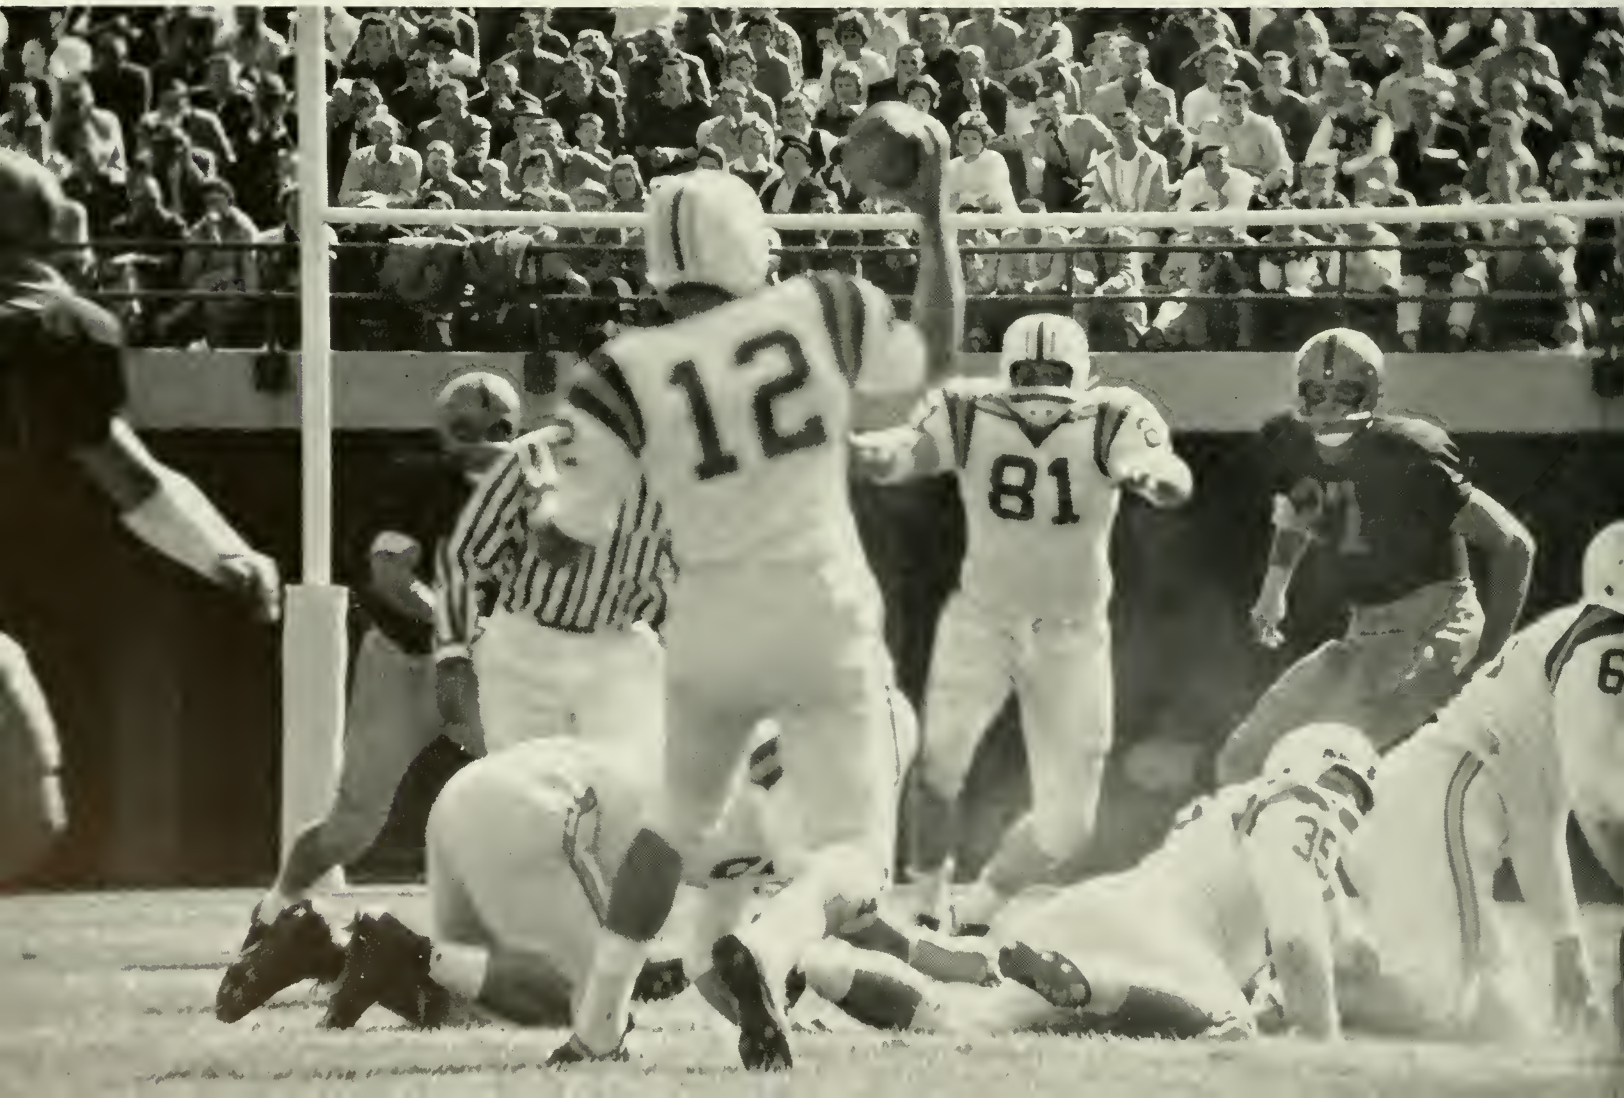
Joe Krakowski eluded the entire team and rambled 53 yards for an Illini touchdown. A few minutes later the Illinois varsity carried the ball 4 times for 61 yards, culminating with colorful Marshall Starks scoring from 25 yards out.

In the last stanza, the fighting Illini again drove 61 yards for their fourth touchdown of the afternoon.

After Mountaineer quarterback Dale Evans bobbled the ball inside his own ten-yard line, he got off a short hurried kick to the 27-yard line.

Illinois used five plays in driving back down the field for the score.

The Mountaineers, still trying to escape a "whitewash," drove to the Big Ten team's 29-yard line. After the referees called a 15-yard penalty, the Mounties could not make a first down and thus went down to a shutout defeat.



Richmond Times-Dispatch

RICHMOND SPOILS HOPES

Starting one hour later than usual, West Virginia was favored to break an eight-game losing streak at the expense of Richmond at Mountaineer field. The last victory was one of the school's all-time greatest, the 23-15 upset of Pitt last season.

Such a victory would give the Mountaineers a start in their big rebuilding program under Coach Gene Corum. He was using about 40 players per game to provide experience for the future, and confidence prevails that the system will pay off. Ordinarily the Mountaineers would have already had a victory under their belts, but the caliber of the most arduous schedule in the University's football history makes for the current situation. It was a schedule that West Virginia teams could have handled a few years ago and should be able to meet on balanced terms soon.

Last season saw the closest game in the series between these two Southern Conference rivals, West Virginia preserving its undefeated status against the Spiders by the score of 10-7 on Johnny "Golden Toe" Thackston's last-period field goal. Richmond graduated a majority of its squad, which was good enough to tie conference V.M.I., while the Mountaineers, despite the record (0-3), was rated an improved team.

Richmond was described by scout and Coach Charles "Chick" Donaldson as a good first team, lacking in depth. Apparently the Mountaineers' three units had the opportunity to wear this foe down.

This was Band Day at Mountaineer Field, always a colorful affair. Majorettes pranced all over the field at halftime while the University band and dozens of high school bands performed en masse from the stands. This was a bright spot in a cloudy, dreary day.

Richmond came out the second half to spoil and down the hopes, temporarily, of winning a ball game. The two teams fought to a seven-to-seven tie.

The Pittsburgh Press

Pitt Claws Mounties 42-0

The young big team left their home to play arch-rival Pitt in their own backyard. The Pitt-West Virginia football version of the World Series took over sports-mad Pittsburgh in the fifty-second renewal of a rivalry that has the overtones of a crusade for the young Mounties.

The underdog had won six of the last eight games. West Virginia had won four of those games and they were all considered upsets.

Last year's victory, 23-15, over a Pitt team that defeated Penn State, Notre Dame, and others, happens to have been the last time West Virginia won a game.

The Panthers held a weight advantage at every starting position but two, a-fourteen-pounds-per-man edge in the line and ten pounds over-all. Pitt had the big, powerful and fast "C" boys, Fred Cox, Bob Clemens and Jim Cunningham, in the backfield, which was quarterbacked by Jim Traficant and Ed Sharockman.

Back in 1952, a stumbling West Virginia football team, which had suffered three years without a winning season, came to life with one of the greatest victories in its history. The fuzz-faced Mountaineers thumped old rival Pitt 16-0 to ring in the University's second golden era in football—a record of 29 triumphs in 33 games.

With two wins in the last three Panther gridfests, West Virginia looked to that bleak Saturday in familiar Pitt Stadium as another great opportunity to play the game to remember a lifetime.

The big-city dwellers had other ideas and they transferred those ideas into reality. That dark, dismal afternoon, the "C" boys with Mike Ditka, All-American end, ran and passed circles around the young, inexperienced men from the Mountain State. After the dust had cleared and the blood was wiped from the field, the scoreboard told, that Saturday, West Virginia had succumbed to the superior Pittsburgh team 42-0.

THE POST-STANDARD

Mountaineers Fail to Squeeze Orange

Homecoming Day at Mountaineer Stadium unfolded as a beautiful afternoon, not at all indicative of what was to befall the Gold and Blue Giants as they began their pre-game exercises.

It was a fitting occasion for the biennial return of old grad Floyd (Ben) Schwartzwalder, class of 1933. This day however, Ben was not here to gather round the old gang; he was here to defeat the Mounties with his own Syracuse Orangemen and he did not leave Morgantown disappointed.

As the opening kickoff soared down the field to the Orangeman, Ernie Davis, it was apparent this was not a day to gladden the hearts of Mountaineers. After a sustained drive of 78 yards the Syracuse line opened a hole and Art Baker flashed through for the "T.D."

Later in the initial period Syracuse knocked on the Mountaineers' door after Dale Evans' fumble on his own 22-yard line. The powerful Gold and Blue defense then dug in and made a spectacular save.

The Mounties finally drove down the field and after a disappointing series inside the Syracuse 10-yard line, the Orangemen took over on their own four-yard line. The Syracuse power became apparent as they went on to score two more times in the last five minutes of the half, when the Mounties fumbled once and kicked a short 12-yard punt to set up these scores.

The second half was dominated by the Orange as they marched down the field five times. The Mountaineers stopped the first drive at the 11, but they ran out of steam as Syracuse scored four times on drives of 49, 46, 57, and 35 yards.

Almost 20,000 Homecoming fans saw West Virginia University finally go down to the 45-0 defeat. It was Art Baker and Ernie Davis who contributed four of the Orange "T.D.'s," while Coach Corum used 42 players in attempting to halt the powerful Syracuse attacks.

Marvin Sleith was the leading Mountaineer rusher, gaining 28 yards in four carries. Dale Evans attempted fifteen passes and completed seven, but saw one stray aerial fall into the hands of a Syracuse defender.

The Orange victory marked their 16th straight victory and anchored their holding on the Number One rating in the country. The powerful team completed 13 passes for 169 yards and three "T.D.'s," while the Mounties netted 85 yards in the air. Art Baker was the outstanding back as he carried the pigskin 14 times for a total of 125 yards.

Nittany Lion's Stalk Proves Successful

Having moved away from the scene of some of their greatest triumphs, the West Virginia Mountaineers visited Beaver Stadium, now the country's largest all-steel stadium, to joust with their old rival Penn State.

In the opening stanza Penn State scored from 26 yards out after a fumble by the luckless Mountaineers.

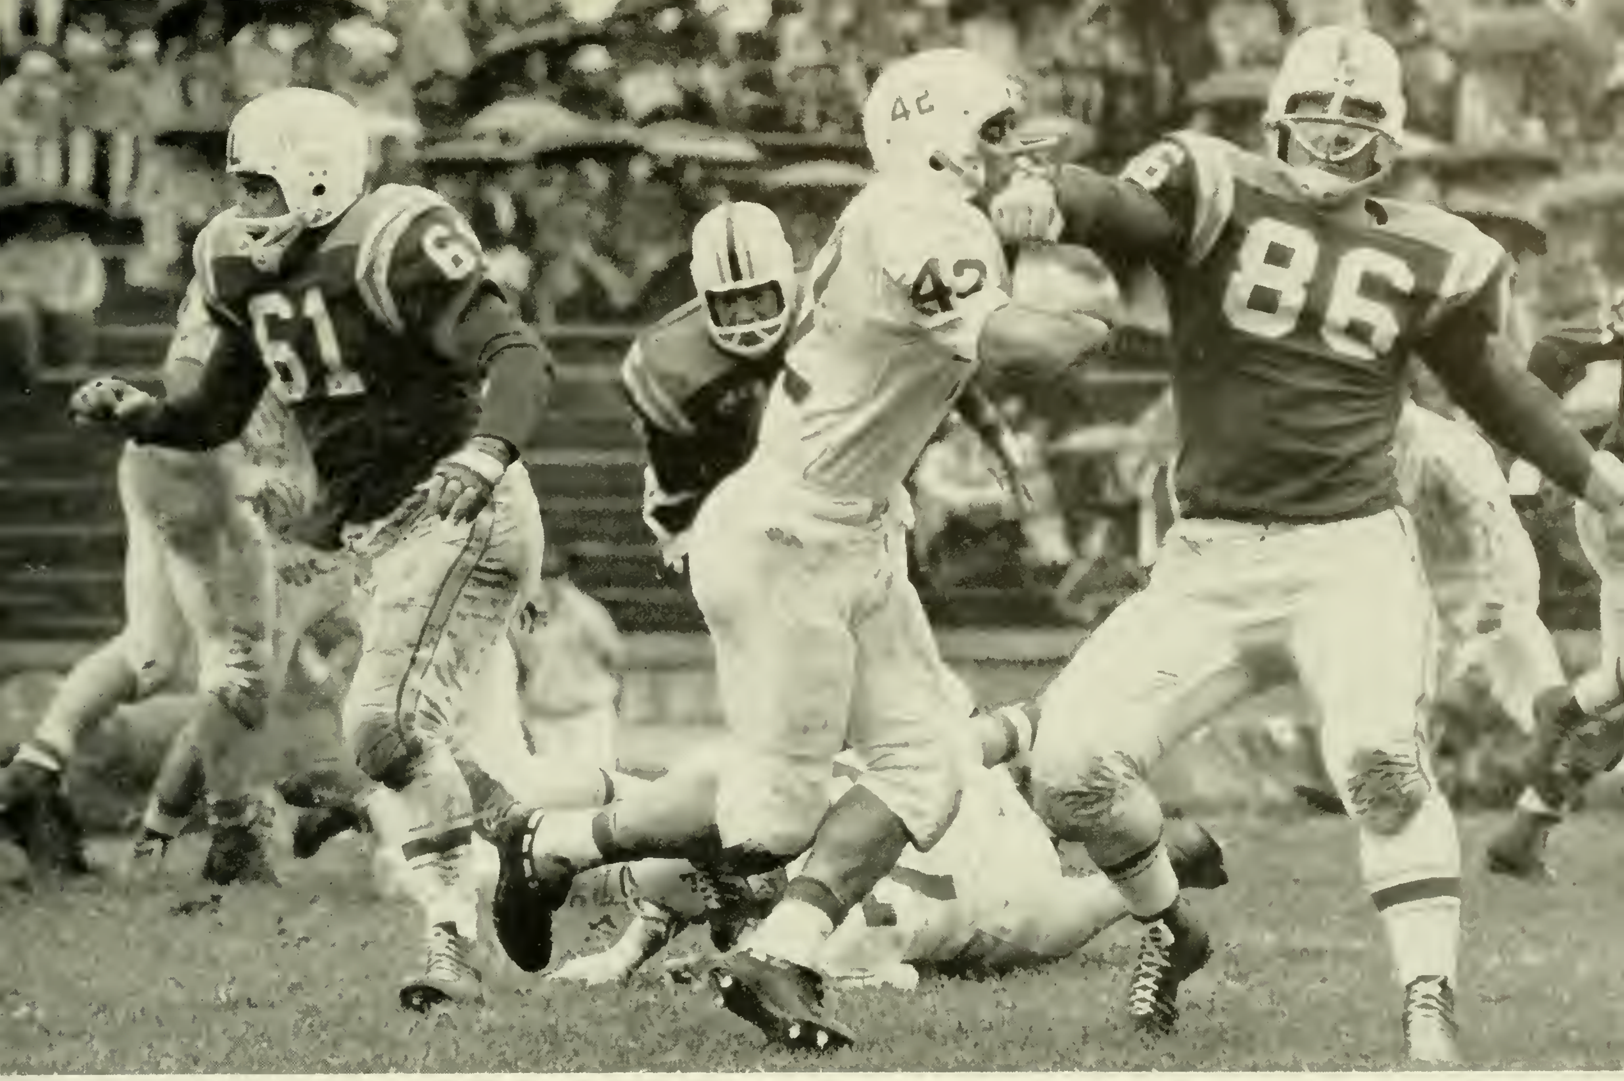
West Virginia then stiffened and the Nittany Lions had to wait until the second quarter before scoring two more touchdowns. The half ended with Penn State leading by a score of 21-0.

The Mountaineers looked like a different team as they charged from their dressing room to take the field against the now-confident Lions. After stopping a Nittany drive, Danny Williams passed to Gene Heeter, one of Coach Corum's spectacular Sophomore ends, for 68 yards. But the fired-up Mounties could not stoke enough coal to the flames and their threat died deep in Penn State territory.

Before the Mounties' defense could organize, the Lions, after intercepting a pass on the Blue and Gold line, pushed over for their first score of the second half. Finally the Mountaineers were once again composed and managed to fight off any further Nittany scores.

Sophomore Larry Tracewell then led the Mounties 68 yards for their first score. Tracewell ran 37 yards and passed 3 times for long gains on this series. The last pass went to another sophomore, Frank Schneider, to set up Tracewell's scoring plunge from the 3.

A few minutes later West Virginia intercepted a pass on their own 47-yard line. Tracewell again took over the job of quarterbacking the squad to a touchdown. A 42-yard pass to a fellow native of Parkersburg set up the score. Seconds later, that score came as Tracewell passed to Halfback Marvin Sleith over the goal line. In addition to completing 4 passes for 88 yards, Tracewell was also the leading ground-gainer for the Mounties.



THE BOSTON HERALD

Terriers Chew Up WVU

Improving West Virginia, its spirit still high and physical condition good after seven winless games, tackled an opponent more within its class, the Boston University Terriers.

Boston had bumped neighbor Holy Cross for only the third time in history, but ran into small-college buzz saws in Ohio University and Connicticut and stood 2-4-1 for the season. West Virginia stood 0-6-1. Penn State defeated both at home by about the same margin.

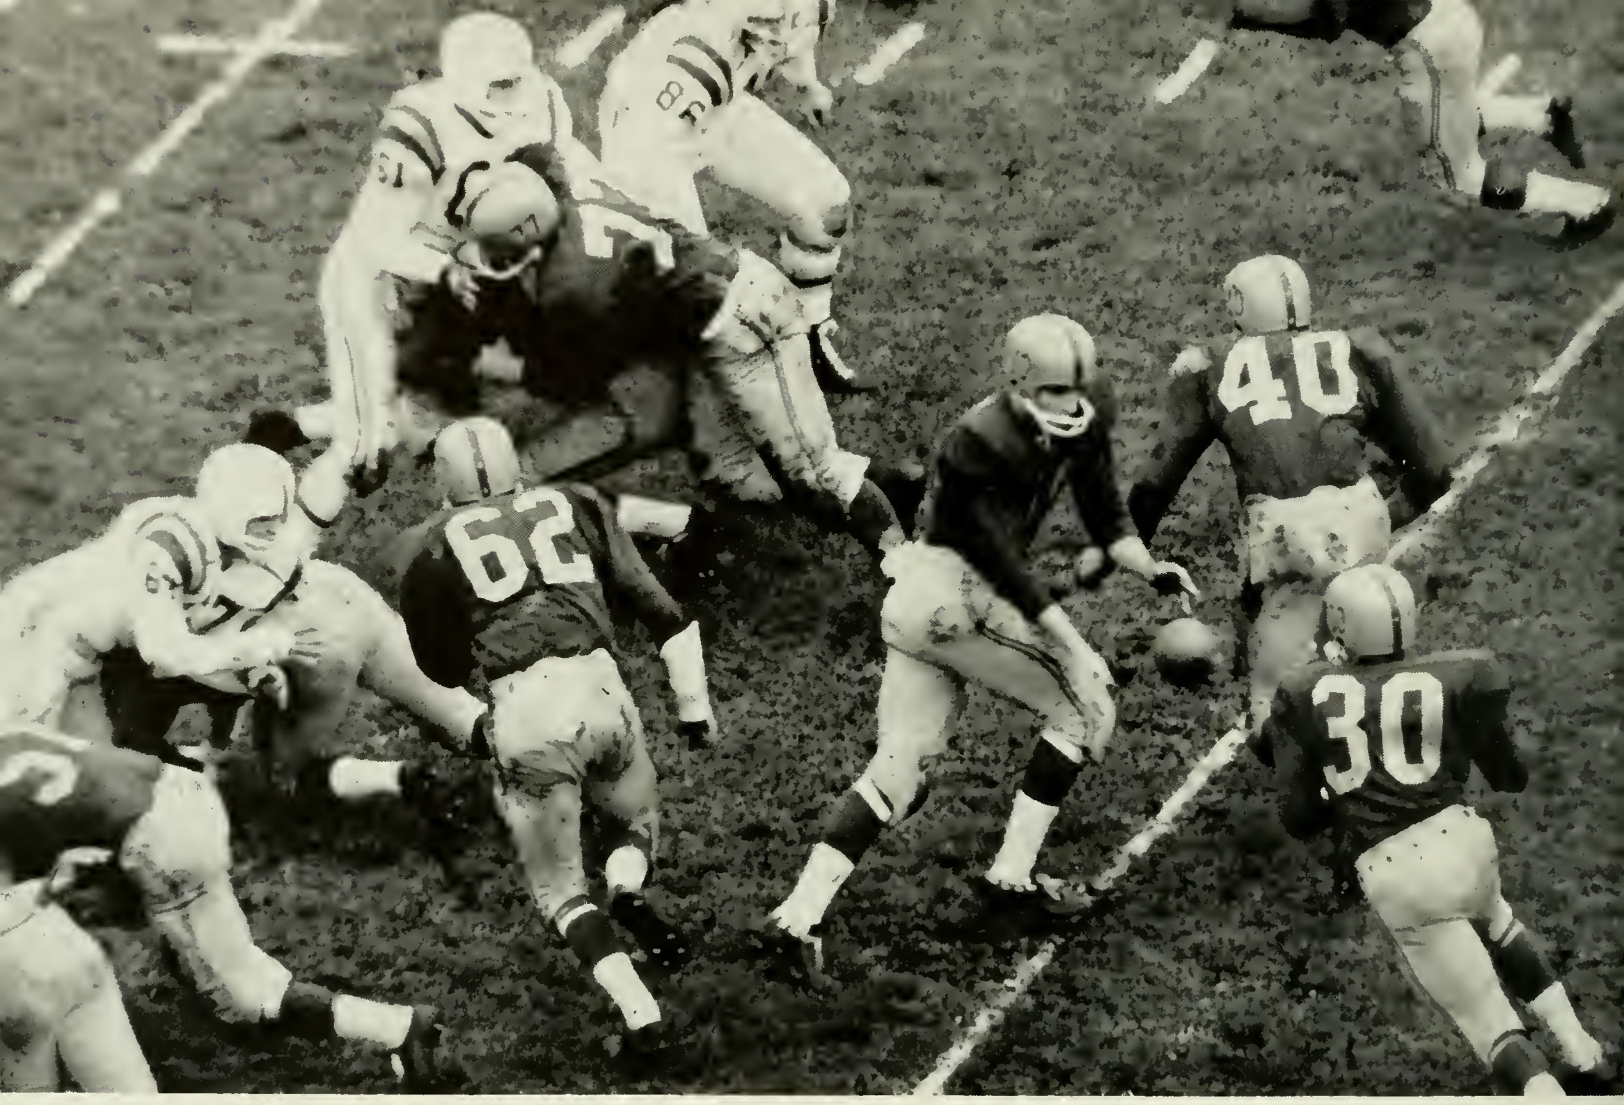
The visitors presented, in 180-pound Dick Desmarais, one of the finest backs in the country, who had picked up 445 yards on 91 carries (4.9 average), 176 yards on nine catches, and five touchdowns. They also claimed a big line, averaging 213 pounds, outweighing West Virginia by 14 pounds per man, and anchored by tackle Bill Minihane, 228, and linebacker Bill DeLorenzo, 220.

Coach Gene Corum's perseverance in playing a large number of men, 41 per game, was beginning to pay off. Besides being able to absorb injuries and avoid others by keeping his men fresh, Corum's squad maintained a remarkably high degree of morale. Corum said, "it is because more boys are playing and more are worn out . . . the only way to face a rebuilding season with the caliber of teams scheduled. We'll be glad next year that we did it."

An example of what is meant by experience was Dale Evans, the sometimes-flashy quarterback. Evans came into the season an inexperienced junior, having played only 26 minutes last year. The Mountaineers will have no "inexperienced juniors" in 1961.

The brief football series with Boston University shows close, exciting games, with the Terriers under Coach Steve Sinko taking the last two by the margin of a touchdown after "big" wins by West Virginia in 1957 and Boston University in 1949.

Rain hit Mountaineer stadium about game time. There was a sparse crowd to witness one of the three games that West Virginia was "supposed" to win. Things turned out as usual, the Mountaineers held the Terriers to a seven-to-seven tie. This made the season record, no wins, six losses and two ties.



The Oregonian

Webfeet Squeeze Mounties

Oregon has been surnamed the Webfeet, but they must wear rabbits' feet, since the west coast team met its third winless opponent when West Virginia University visited Portland for the game at Multormah Stadium. A large majority of the Mountie traveling squad were sophomores, even though Coach Gene Corum was limited to only 35 players.

Before the game, sophomore Don Myers held a 4.6-yard average and Dale Evans compiled a 42% pass-completion record. After the game, Coach Corum remarked that this was the best game of the season for the Blue and Gold gridiron giants. It was only after three quarters of even play that the Webfeet managed to pull the game out of the fire. The "West Coasters" managed to shorten the outstanding defense by one in the last quarter as Frank Schneider, one of the most improved players on the squad, tore ligaments in his knee.

The Mounties fumbled the first time they got their hands on the ball and Oregon capitalized, driving the remaining 37 yards for the score. After this misfortune, there was no more scoring until the final stanze, although the Mountaineers threatened more than once to knock down the Webfeet goal posts, only to be stopped deep in Oregon territory.

In the fourth quarter the Mountaineers took the ball on their own 27-yard line. Dale Evans faded back after the count and unleashed a long pass to Halfback Jim Moss who galloped the rest of the way to pay dirt unmolested. This play covered 37 yards, by far the most spectacular of the season for the Mounties.

Oregon, not about to die, then intercepted a Mountie pass on their own 40-yard marker. After a sustained drive the Webfeet plunged over for the goal that broke the Mounties' back. Later colorful Cleveland Jones sprinted 50 yards in a beautiful display of broken-field running.

After the final gun sounded the score read: Oregon—15, Mountaineers—6, but it was agreed by all who witnessed the game that it could have ended another way. While the Webfeet outgained the Mountaineers on the ground, they were literally passed off the field by WVU aerials. Along with Moss, Sophomore End Gene Heeter shone as a capable pass receiver.

The Washington Post

George Washington Avenges West Virginia

Fresh from three consecutive victories, George Washington posed the final challenge to an improving West Virginia team which was trying to avoid its first winless season since taking up football in 1891.

Although their opponent held victories over such teams as Air Force and Virginia Tech, the Mountaineers were ready to compete on even terms.

Ten seniors played their last game for West Virginia—quarterbacks Carmen Pomponio and Danny Williams, fullbacks Bob Benke and Tom Huston, halfback John Marra, centers Charles Lanasa and Bob Lively, guards Pete Tolley and Charles Bonar, and tackle Glenn Bowman. Another senior, end Ray Borlie, broke his leg early in the season.

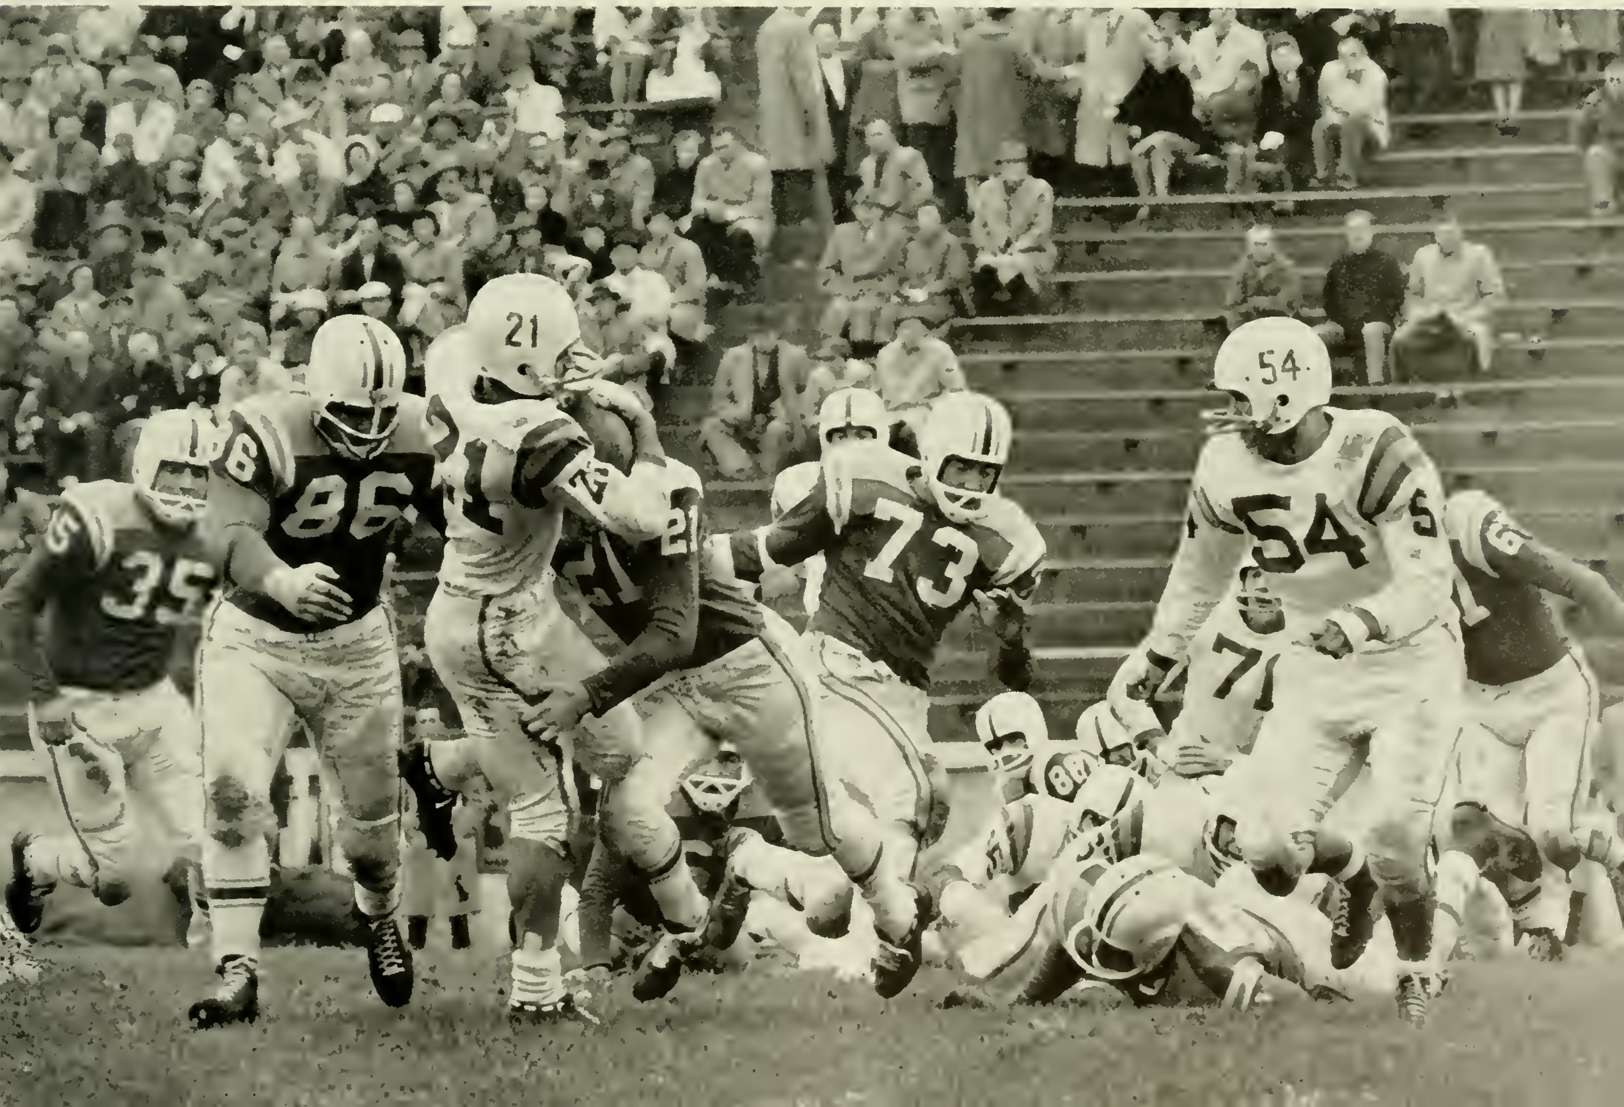
In last year's tilt, little John "Golden Toe" Thackston came off the bench to boot a field goal to give the Mounties a 10-7 win over the Colonials. In this year's tilt, the story was very much in reverse. The Colonials ran West Virginia all over the field and took a 26-0 victory back with them to the Capitol City.

This ended the most dismal season since 1891, when West Virginia picked up football. The team finished the season with an unimpressive record of no wins, eight defeats and two losses.

Many are predicting a winning season for next year, with twenty-two sophomore lettermen returning. What makes it seem possible is that they all have had stiff competition for their base of football for the remaining two years of their college careers. Look out, teams in the future, we have a winner on our hands.

In the statistical field, things looked as dark, but for the future, it may be a blessing in disguise. In the rushing department, Bob Benke took the honors with a 3.7 yards per carry; punt returns, sophomore Jim "Shorty" Moss ran the ball back three times for forty-four yards; kick-off returns, sophomore Marv Sleith returned eight times for a total of one hundred and seventy-four yards and the scoring honors went to "Shorty" Moss with twelve points.

To Coach Gene Corum we say, "Good Luck this coming season and we will be behind you one hundred per cent."



FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

The football picture for next year appears to be brightening considerably. Although there seems to be a "long way to go," the Freshmen Mountaineers are bent on making the coming season full of surprises.

Coach Ed Shockley is pleased that his Frosh will fit in so well with next year's Varsity.

The Line will be strengthened by the services of "Bunky" Brooks, a center and tackle who was "all-everything" in high school. Along with him will be two outstanding linemen: Bernard Carney, a tackle, and Jim Presley, an end.

The offense of next season's Blue and Gold should be bolstered by a star-studded frosh backfield. Fred Colvard leads a strong one-two punch at quarterback with Jerry Yost breathing hard down his back. Colvard was the recipient of the Kennedy Award in high school.

Glenn Holton, the kicker and hard-hitting fullback of last year's team, is being looked upon to lead a hard-running game.

Two halfbacks will also help the Varsity backfield; these are Dick Frum, also a punter, and Bill Fleming.

Put these outstanding men with the Varsity's experienced sophomores, and, W. V. U. opponents—look out!

In 1960, Coach Stan Romanoski led the Gold and Blue cross-country squad to four straight victories before I.C.A.A.A.A. Champion Penn State defeated them. Not to be quitters, the Mounties went on to win their last three meets, and in the process gave the University of Kentucky their worst defeat in history. Due to some illness on the team, they fiinished only fourth in the Southern Conference meet, but placed two men, Chuck Rea and Raynor Baldwin, on the All-Southern Conference Crosscountry Team.

In 1961, Romanoski will again lead a winning team to the field and expectations can be summed up with that coach's words, "We'll have one of the best teams ever assembled here."

Although the team will lose the services of senior workhorse Glen Hunt, they will pick up freshmen Joe Kubic and Roger Meador, both of whom scored highly in the Freshman Southern Conference meet.

Mr. Romanoski graduated from West Virginia University in 1946. He coached at Anstead High on both ends of a visit to the armed forces. He then coached Dunbar to two straight track championships. Three years ago Coach Romanoski came to the University and assumed the role of head mentor of both the Track and Crosscountry squads.

CROSS COUNTRY

THE MOUNTAINEER

William McPherson

The Mountaineer, the symbol of our University, symbolizes the courage and ruggedness of his past counterparts. Depicting an individualism which carved this land from the wilderness, he moves forward in his adventure into higher education. The sound of his long rifle has become very familiar to every West Virginia fan and is rapidly becoming the trademark of our "alma mater" across the country as the fame of Mountaineer teams spreads.

He combines the past, present and future of our University and State. As long as there is a West Virginia University, there will be a Mountaineer to exemplify the spirit of "loyal Mountaineers" in action.

SPIRITEERS

Months of intricate planning and intense work resulting in the splendid card displays at various home football games are the responsibility of this committee. The history of this well-coordinated organization dates back to 1952 when Student Government sought financial backing from the Athletic Department for the purposes of organizing a card section to add color to an otherwise colorless football season. This year, as in 1952, the color was needed, but non-cooperative students and color-blind ones created a frustrating experience for those who had labored long and hard.

Another outstanding card display by the Spiriteers.

The smell of pine was in the air; holly and mistletoe were hung everywhere. The spirits were high; the grades were low; but who cared? It was time to think of stuffed turkeys, teddy bears, diamond rings, and jolly old St. Nick.

Mumbling to themselves, "Ho, Ho," various imitations of Mr. Claus pressed onward to do their best at embarrassing the opposite sex while presenting unique gifts to them. Following the celebrations on campus, the students began to pack their bags and hum, "I'll be home for Christmas."

After a three-week vacation, those enrolled at WVU were once again reminded of their obligations on campus and silently returned to break ground on their studies for that fatal week of finals.

The more serious students, realizing that much was to be done in two weeks, began immediately to concentrate on playing the role of scholar, while the majority resolved their sorrows by participating in "Final Flings."

At long last, final week wormed its way upon the campus, and students began indulging in nicotine, caffeine, dextradrene and other such stay-awake devices while they wiped away their tears and prayed for the coming of the last final.

LIFE WEEK

Life Week, with this year's theme, "The Will to Believe," is a time set aside for students to analyze their lives. The program for this stimulating week included seminars, lectures, a religious drama production, a convocation, and "buzz groups" concerning diversified subjects, each dealing with the problems and philosophies of education and of their purpose of application in today's society. Church youth groups, fraternities and sororities joined in the week's activities with guest speakers and panel discussions.

Dr. Marcus Bach, Assistant Dean of Religion at the University of Iowa and famous world traveler and lecturer, visited the campus as guest speaker. His speech was titled, "God and Soviets."

This four-day program is sponsored annually by the Y.W.C.A. and the Y.M.C.A.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

The University Theatre presented 37 productions this year. The major productions were "Charley's Aunt," "Brigadoon," "Tiger at the Gates," and a children's theatre production consisting of two plays, "The Shoemakers Wife" and "Androcles and the Lion." The children's productions toured various parts of West Virginia during the week between semesters.

At the beginning of the year the studio theatre was used to study different acting styles.

Each year, Sphinx, senior men's honorary, sponsors an exciting and captivating event known as the Sphinx Talent Show. This is one of the times during the year when the Sphinx members put forth their efforts to earn money for worthy projects.

For months before this affair, fraternities, sororities, and independent organizations begin the task of organizing and practicing their parts in the production so that they might catch the eyes of the judges with the outcome being in their favor. As the team sat around the dressing room preceding their first of the 1960-61 Basketball season, all were thinking of the differences between last year's team and the one they were now sitting among.

Two familiar faces are gone, as Coach Fred Schaus and "All-Everything" Jerry West traveled to Los Angeles to continue the hardcourt game; but these vacancies have been filled by the capable George King and a new team.

Seniors Joe Posch, Jim Ritchie, Nick Visnic and Lee Patrone were back to steady the otherwise young team.

The team took the floor against William and Mary to begin one of their most outstanding seasons in history. It was Lee Patrone and sophomore Rod Thorn that led the team to an overtime victory, in what was considered a real thriller.

The Citadel came to town with an eye on breaking WVU's win streak at home at 44 games—and they did just that. By no means was it an easy victory as the Mountaineers battled back to a one-point deficit before running out of time. Sophomore Rod Thorn lived up to pre-season expectations by leading the team with 26 points.

Next WVU upset Nationally Ranked Wake Forest at Charlotte, North Carolina. Thorn and Jim McCormick led the win.

Duke squeezed past the Mounties the next night to even up WVU's record at two wins and two losses.

Shuck on the "Moose"

"Hey, you can't do that!"

The Gold and Blue Hoopsters romped past Richmond and Virginia, before heading to the Sugar Bowl.

The Mounties did everything right as they stormed over Tulane in the opening game of the Mardi Gras Sport Special. When the dust cleared, the score was 98-70 in favor of the Tall Boys of the North. Lee Patrone and reserve Kenny Ward led the way to the victory.

In the finals, the Mounties met undefeated Memphis State and with a tremendous show of desire fought their way to an overtime 86-82 championship victory. Lee Patrone was elected the Tournament's most valuable player and, along with Thorn, was elected to the All Tournament team.

The hardcourt boys returned home after the Sugar Bowl Tournament for a three-game home stand. VMI, Richmond and Syracuse all rolled over and played dead as the Mounties swept all three games with little trouble.

On the road again, the Mountaineers showed no sign of battle fatigue as they tore up George Washington 105-87. Rod Thorn scored 32 points and played a brilliant all-round game.

Villanova apparently didn't read WVU's press clippings, for they proceeded to stop the Mountaineers' win streak at eight. Despite a last-minute surge by West Virginia, using their famous "panic press," the Wildcats managed to save the game in the closing seconds.

Depression was the mood of the hoopsters as they approached Pittsburgh, but it certainly didn't show on the court as the Mounties shot the Panthers down, 73-68. Patrone and McCormick led the team in points and rebounds, as the two guards enjoyed one of their best games against the arch-rivals, Pitt.

VPI descended upon our home city of Morgantown with the intentions of knocking the Mountaineers from contention in the Southern Conference, but the Mounties' musket was trained on the Gobblers and the Mounties didn't miss. Joe Posch and Sophomore Dave Shuck reduced Tech's All-American center Chris Smith to limited maneuvers under the basket, and Thorn plus McCormick again proved to be too much for the opposition.

With a tremendous team effort the Blue and Gold rolled over the William & Mary Indians, 79-69. Jeff Cohen, the opponent's All American candidate, was bottled up nicely by Dave Shuck.

Furman invited the Mounties down for the week end, hoping to avenge their earlier defeat. The best that they could do was finish nine points behind the high-riding Mountaineers.

Lee Patrone played a brilliant game in every respect, scoring 22 points, and Jim McCormick was right behind with 19.

A tired West Virginia Basketball Team fought off VMI to complete a sweep of its tough three-game Southern Conference trip. Five WVU players were in double figures, and McCormick, Thorn and Ward all had 20-plus points in beating the Keydets, 102-91.

North Carolina State, not satisfied with an 86-78 humiliation, injured three of the top six players on the Blue and Gold squad.

The Mountaineers plucked the Violets' hope for a N.C.A.A. Tournament spot as they scored a 75-60 victory over New York University. Scoring was fairly even as ten of eleven players scored baskets for the Blue and Gold.

Southern Conference foe, Richmond, hosted the Mountaineers, only to find the West Virginians were not very receptive guests. They trounced the Spiders at their own game, with Thorn once again a big gun for the Mountaineers.

The Nittany Lions almost chewed up the Mountaineers, before the latter could set their snares. Using the panic press most of the game, the Mounties saw the lead change hands until the clock showed 10 seconds to go, and Kenny Ward dumped the victory basket.

Continuing with the traditional rivalries, Pitt and Penn State were met and conquered without the services of Sophomore Ace Rod Thorn.

roof down on them. They were left on the short end of a 104-90 score. Once again, five players were in double figures, with Patrone and McCormick having over 20 points each.

The West Virginia Mountaineers entered the Southern Conference boasting a 22-3 season record and 12-1 in the conference.

The Mounties defeated the V.M.I. squad by a score of 89-71 in their first tournament game. Lee Patrone, again showing his tournament power, led the W.V.U. scoring with 20 points, and also 19 rebounds. Rod Thorn followed the Bellaire Bomber with 15 points.

After a remarkable string of luck which saw them capture 21 out of 22 games, the Mountaineers fell victims to an upset by William and Mary, ending a six-year hold on the Southern Conference title. The final score was 88-76; rugged Lee Patrone, with 38 points, could not match the victors alone. Rod Thorn was unable to score in the game, but he finished the season with an 18.5 point per game average, good enough to lead the team. He was also the leader in rebounds with 12.5 per game.

Kenny Ward led the team in field-goal shooting with 52.3 percent of his shots being good. Joe Posch became the third-best foul-shooter in Mountaineer annals, with a season mark of 90.2 percent and a career mark of 82.9 percent.

Lee Patrone, Jim McCormick and Jim Ritchie also scored in double figures for the season, with 14.6, 12.7, and 11.6, respectively.

The Mountaineers made one of the big comback stories of the year as they bounced back from a 2-2 record to end the season with a 23-4 mark and National Ranking.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

This year, as for many years, the West Virginia Freshman Basketball Squad made mincemeat of all opponents.

Only a seven-point defeat by the Pitt Cubs in Pittsburgh marred an otherwise perfect record. This was avenged by the Little Mountaineers two weeks later, the Cubs going down by 27 points.

Coach Barnette remarks that this year's team had more height than any frosh team at WVU. Perhaps a bit slower, the Little Mounties showed improvement all season.

Along with this sterling group, Mike Wolfe and Donnie Weir will aide the Blue & Gold Varsity next year. Tom Lowry, Bill Maphis and Jay Deitz stand vary good chanes of starting, with Mike Barger, Jim Wedge, Bill Thompson, Doug McKinney and Bob Camp standing good chances of wearing the Blue & Gold next year.

Coach Quentin Barnette has already started looking for next year's Frosh Talent, and hopes to enjoy another fine season.

This year the Little Mounties had impressive victories over W.Va. Wesleyan, Richmond, Ohio University, Westminster, Virginia Tech and Pitt.

Tom Lowry led the team in scoring and rebounding with a 20.5 average per game in each category. Barger and Deitz led in assists. Lowry also had the best field goal percentage, hitting 55% of his shots.

Coach Barnette graduated from the University in 1943. After serving a hitch in the Armed Forces, he coached at Princeton in 1944. Coming back to the University, Barnette finished his Master's and stayed on to coach. Today he is still coaching Freshman Basketball and doing an outstanding job.

After starting with a small team in 1959, Coach Lew Ringer has built the Varsity Swimmers to a contender for the Southern Conference Championship.

The tank Team had its first winning season, as it wound up the season with four wins, two losses and one tie while placing fourth in the Southern Conference Tournament.

With only two graduating Seniors, Kornel Feher and John Pirie, the team looks forward next year to a fine crop of freshmen and several good lettermen.

Feher captained this year's team in the eight-meet schedule.

Paced by junior Russ Irvine and sophomore Rex Anderson, the team broke many varsity and pool records.

Coach Lew Ringer graduated from Springfield College in 1956, where he starred in Gymnastics. After a temporary job at Texas University, Ringer went tc the Armed Forces.

Receiving his discharge in 1958, Lew came to West Virginia University and has been coaching the Varsity Swimming team ever since.

Wrestling was in the spotlight at West Virginia University this spring, as national powers Ohio State and Penn State came to the fieldhouse, as well as the first Southern Conference Wrestling tournament ever to be held here.

The "mat men" of West Virginia won 9 meets and dropped 3. Bob Petres was the Southern Conference Champion in the 137-lb. class. Ralph Staton, Tom Greaser and Sam Church were runners-up in their respective divisions.

Next year, Coach Harrick expects a very good team, with only three graduates. Ralph Staten, Bob Petres and Paul Hoblitzell have all climbed on the mat for the Blue & Gold for the last time. Therefore, the 120-to-137-lb. divisions will be weak.

Coach Harrick has produced two Conference Championships and 23 champions since 1947, when he returned to West Virginia after coaching at West Virginia Tech. Harrick was on the University's first wrestling team in 1920-21 and coached the team his senior year.

WRESTLING

RIFLE

As one of the University's youngest varsity sports, the Rifle Team has been outstanding since 1951. This year the team has compiled a record of twenty-seven wins and only two losses.

The members of this year's team have broken every West Virginia record. Of the two season losses, one was a one-point "technical" loss in the Southern Conference Meet.

The team has two potential All-Americans in Bruce Meredith and Bob Davies. Meredith has averaged 293.7 for the year, a phenomenal record considering that 300 is perfect. He scored a brilliant 299 in the National Rifle Association Match. This makes him the highest shooter in the nation and sets a national record. Next year, Bruce will be gone and the team will definitely miss his services.

The 1961 Rifle Team should achieve new heights by being named the National Champions. The Mounties scored five more points than the victors of last year, making them truly deserving of the title of National Champions.

GYMNASTICS

Coach Bonsall came to WVU in 1949, after an illustrious career as a gymnast at Penn State. As a Physical Education instructor, Bonsall had dreams of a varsity gymnastics team with Blue & Gold uniforms. In 1954, this dream came true and the team met Ohio State, North Carolina, Pitt, and Penn State.

Now, only seven years later, the Varsity Gymnastics group has expanded along with the "Golden Era of Sports."

Although the team won only one of five meets, they were nosed out by only a few points each time. This was quite an accomplishment, considering that the team consisted of only eight men. A gymnastics team usually consists of 12-15 men.

Next year, West Virginia will have that many men, and Coach Bonsall expects the team to do very well.

Bob Jones, the only man to graduate this year, will return as Mr. Bonsall's assistant next year.

Monticola
West Virginia University

Dear Miss Warder:

I want to thank you for extending me the honor of participating as a judge in the Monticola queen contest. My feelings are mixed, however, as you have presented me with a task which is both pleasant and difficult.

As far back as I can remember, West Virginia has produced an abundant supply of beautiful girls. I spent many classroom hours reflecting on this fact, and I'm glad to see from the candidates that the tradition continues.

Choosing winners among so many so fair is not easy. After careful deliberation, however, my choices are as follows:

1. [illegible] Vaughan
2. [illegible]
3. [illegible] Mae Wallace
4. Myrna Snider
5. Brenda Kay Booth

May I take this opportunity to express my hopes of good fortune to all the young ladies, and my best wishes for Monticola's continued success.

Sincerely yours,

Among seventeen desirable candidates, Barbara Vaughan was selected as the 1961 MONTICOLA Queen. Don Knotts, a well-known comedian and University graduate, examined photographs of all the candidates in making his choice.

Barbara may be described as a petite and lively blond who is only five feet and two inches tall. An active, well-liked member of Pi Beta Phi social sorority, Barbara is majoring in Sociology with plans of working toward a graduate degree.

Reading, intellectual discussions, and dramatics are a few of the Queen's varied outside interests. Among extra-curricular activities, Barbara participates in the University Philosophical Society.

When asked how she felt about being selected as MONTICOLA Queen, Barbara replied, "It was a wonderful surprise!"

SAFARI WEEKEND

For weeks previous to that ancient celebration honoring the glorious exploits of St. Valentine, the University coeds, following in the tradition of the Zulu women, set out on a Safari to stalk unwary "Big Game" known as University men.

The "Big Ambush" was carefully planned by the persistent tribe known as AWS. The grand safari required that each coed select her "Biggest Catch" with no holds barred.

Gathering in council the women finally arrived at a decision appointing one of the game as the prize catch. Upon selection of the unsuspecting ones, the last dinner was provided by the scheming damsels. Following this, a wild and uninhibited jungle dance, with music provided by the tom-tom beat of the Bonnevilles, successfully managed to reduce the captive males to a meek and obliging group.

Biggest Catch on campus, Mike Locke

After placing the men in safekeeping for the night, the torture resumed the following afternoon and continued through the day with parties varying from the TGISW (Safari Weekend) to the Tarzan-and-Jane-type party intermingled with ape calls and jungle sports.

After the fun was over, the captives were conditionally freed with certain obligations imposed upon them for a period of one year. Thus, the vicious cycle returned to its normal course with the AWS Tribe retrieving broken spears, collecting available evidence, returning to the council table to review the success of the big Safari, and plotting a strategy for the return of the celebration one year hence.

On Friday afternoon, April 29, high school leaders from all over the state invaded the campus to register for a week end of lectures, discussions, seminars, and receptions.

Early Saturday morning the students were seen climbing on buses to head for the Medical School where they were taken on an informative tour. After having lunch in the cafeteria and hearing lectures by members of the medical faculty, they once again boarded the buses and returned to the main campus. Upon their arrival, they divided into seminar groups to discuss various leadership problems confronting them in their individual schools.

For a change of atmosphere, the students, dressed in typical Saturday night apparel, approached the Mountainlair for a banquet and dance to conclude a profitable weekend at WVU.

This year, from 9-1 p.m. on April 15, Mountainlair overflowed with the lilting music of Ralph Flanagan's orchestra as the future military officers of America whirled and twirled their dates throughout the ballroom. Military dress and full-length evening gowns were the dress for this formal occasion, during which the Military Queen was crowned and her court was recognized.

UNIVERSITY SHOWCASE

The idea for the University Showcase developed from a plan to create a stage production which would illuminate activities in the performing arts on the campus. The story developed from the idea of utilizing the numerous performing groups to comment on some aspects of our cultural heritage.

The University Showcase, written and produced by Joseph Golz, toured the major cities of West Virginia during mid-semester break.

The story is a fantasy. A young boy dreams so earnestly of getting to outer space that he suddenly finds himself there. Once there, he discovers the need for certain ideas and truths. As he reconstructs these ideas out of his past experience, he realizes the importance of his heritage in building his own future.

GREEK WEEK

Greek Week is a time set aside every year to give the fraternities an opportunity to unite in fun and fellowship. The purpose of this week is to promote harmony and goodwill among the different fraternities.

The events began on Tuesday with a debate tournament in which each fraternity competed for a period of two days to determine the frat most blessed with the "gift of gab."

On Friday afternoon the VFW was the scene of a lively inter-fraternity TGIF party where affiliated men and their dates mingled through the crowd to meet new friends and party with old ones. Party-hopping, when fraternity members may party in other houses, was the popular practice of Friday evening.

The service project was completed on Saturday afternoon. Highlighting the week was a gala event at which masses of tuxedos and cocktail dresses invaded Mountainlair to dance to the sounds of Buddy Morrow and his Night Train Band. During intermission the Men's Pan Queen and her court were presented to the students.

Representatives from various Greek organizations gathered to attend church services on Sunday morning. To end the successful week of events, a bridge tournament was held Sunday afternoon, and the disciples of Goren displayed their talents.

SPRING SPREE

As the birds and bees came out of winter hibernation, the human segment of the campus also welcomed the balmy weather by celebrating the most fabulous and exciting weekend of the year—Spring Spree!

For many months the coeds, anticipating that Spring might arrive, were religiously fasting in order to regain those slender figures which had become plump as a result of the winter's inactivity.

The lads of Spring, in their Madras bermudas, and the lassies, casually attired in feminine apparel, skipped gaily to the library terrace where they demonstrated the Spirit of Spring through a most ungodly form of dance.

Highlighting the picnics, blanket parties, moonlight swims, and other such Spring activities, was an unusual event where masses gathered to express their innermost feelings of Spring by dancing on the pavement.

The library terrace proves an ideal location for a fresh-air dance

STUDENT LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

In the spring of the year, approximately three bus-loads of campus "big-wheels" leave school work behind and head for Jackson's Mill to attend a three-day conference.

These elite were selected by their respective groups to represent them in the discussing and planning for the coming school year. Many resolutions adopted by the past conferences have found their way into our daily campus living.

Sessions began at 8 A.M. and continued until lunch. Workshops and small group discussions took place in the afternoon, and at 4 P.M. daily, all meetings were broken up to the strains of the conference theme song, "To Hell with Organization," as the delegates rushed off to bridge, volleyball, soft ball, and other games. Every evening an over-all session was held to organize the thoughts of the day.

Sunday found the tired but happy crew loading the buses and leaving for Morgantown where they were once again to approach their classes.

GREATER WEST VIRGINIA WEEKEND

Greater West Virginia Weekend is a time when the campus has been polished to impress the many visiting parents and alumni. This week end gives the University's visitors an inside look at the campus in action, both in the academic phases and in the cultural development of the students.

For months previous to this occasion, the campus organizations had been conscientiously planning and preparing for the many exhibits, performances, and activities which were to take place.

The Link Day Services, which recognized students of high scholarship and leadership, officially launched the activities of the week end. Following this ceremony, the visitors were conducted on an informative tour which included exhibits in many of the classrooms.

The University Players, University Choir, Orchesis, and Dolphin captivated and enchanted their audiences while presenting their various productions.

To bring the week end to a close, the sororities, fraternities and women's dormitories paid tribute to their mothers by presenting the annual Mother's Day Sing.

COMMENCEMENT

After four or more long years of burning midnight oil, medicating headaches, and scurrying off to classes, those who had earned the distinguished title of graduating seniors prepared to receive their degrees and venture out into the world.

As the first week of June appeared, the seniors were seen trying on caps and gowns in final preparation for the ceremonial march through Woodburn Circle to the field house.

June Fourth found Morgantown anxiously awaiting the arrival of parents, friends and relatives who were to take part in the graduation ceremony as proud spectators.

The customary scene of graduation day on the WVU campus is a colorful, steadily flowing line of bright symbolic colors on the traditional black background moving down the cement steps toward its destination.

Following the guest speaker's words of wisdom, the graduates received their degrees from the deans of the various schools and colleges and bid farewell to their alma mater.

SPRING SPORTS

BASEBALL

For 1961, Coach Steve Harrick is looking forward to a promising season since only three seniors were lost from last year's squad. The three lost were pitchers Jim Carter and Paul Chuma, plus outfielder Bill Morosco. Along with losing these men, Coach Harrick also lost Paul Popovich who is now playing in the professional ranks.

Last year's team posted a 17-9 record and finished third in the Southern Conference. This record is considered good for the team which was composed largely of inexperienced sophomores. The leaders in batting were Popovich .426, Bill Smith .326 and Bob Peyton .279. The top pitchers were Jim Carter with an earned run average of 1.07 and Theron West with an ERA of 1.13.

To fill the three vacant spots left by graduation, Coach Harrick will have several promising players from the freshman ranks. With the added strength of these men, Harrick may produce a Conference winner or even a national contender.

Coach Harrick, who also coaches the wrestling team, has been associated with the University since 1924. During this period of time, he has been responsible for many advances in the "minor sports" field.

Tennis was brought to the West Virginia campus between 1903-1906 by John Puritan, a son of a former West Virginia University president.

Hampered by the lack of year-round playing facilities and inexperience, the tennis team compiled a good record of 7-7 during the 1960 season. West Virginia's netmen managed to defeat Davis and Elkins, Waynesburg (twice), University of Pittsburgh (twice), Wheeling College, and Fairmont State. In turn, they were defeated by Washington and Lee, George Washington, University of Richmond, William and Mary, Virginia Tech, Penn State, and Wheeling College.

This year's team will be aided by returning lettermen Bob Klein, Sonny Warner and Bill Schaeffer. Schaeffer is one letterman who was singled out by Dr. Foster, the tennis coach, for his exceptional play in the 1960 season. In commenting about this year's chances, Dr. Foster stated that he "hoped the team would break even as they did last year." Dr. Ruel Foster, a professor of English at the University, has been coaching West Virginia's tennis team since joining the faculty after his graduation from the University of Kentucky.

TENNIS

Charles Sherwood—last year's senior captain and outstanding field-events man.

The Gold and Blue Trackmen started on a good note in 1905 with a win over Marietta College. This year's cindermen hope to equal this unbeaten record attained 55 years ago.

This year, Coach Stanley Romanoski expects to have the best group of trackmen ever assembled at the University. The thinclads expect to do well in the highly competitive Quantico Relays, Penn Relays, Southern Conference Meet, and the I.C.A.A.A.A. contest.

With only one graduating senior and many returnees with bright futures, the Mountaineer squad promises to crack several of the present West Virginia University track records.

The trackmen should prove to be exceptionally strong in the hurdles, with Dieter Garrett leading the way. An otherwise average field-events group could be bolstered to excellence by the efforts of Larry Knight and Marty Puskin.

Last year, the University cinder men were victorious over Fairmont State, Richmond, V.P.I., and Washington & Jefferson, while finishing sixth in the Southern Conference.

TRACK

GOLF

West Virginia's 1961 golf team takes to the fairways boasting a star-studded line-up. Pacing this year's team will be Gary Loring, Bob King, Tom Cunningham, Bill Dunlap and Sam Urso, five of the six who toured the links last spring. Captain and senior Adolph Popp is the lone graduate. In the thick of the battle for this year's sixth man will be John Lynch and Ed Heiskell who played sparingly last year.

Ira Rodgers, Coach of the Mountaineer linkmen, is looking forward to a bright season. Not only this fine starting team, but several freshmen prospects and Curt Nolty, a transfer student, are putting optimism in Coach Rodger's plans for the next few years.

Coach Rodgers was West Virginia University's first All-American in football. Upon graduation in 1919, he started coaching the Mountaineers in football and baseball. He switched to coaching golf in 1949. For the icing on Rodgers' successful career, he was elected to the American Football Hall of Fame.

Last year the golf team was third in our Conference, compiling a 3-5-4 record.

INTRAMURALS

Under the supervision of Mrs. Charity Beto, the Women's Department of Physical Education sponsors the intramural activity for women. All women enrolled in the University are eligible to play in any of the tournaments.

Highlighting the 1959-1960 events were basketball, won by Alpha Delta Pi, and swimming, which resulted in a tie between Alpha Phi and Delta Gamma. Alpha Phi captured the All-Year cup, and Alpha Delta Pi was the participation winner.

MEN'S INTRAMURALS

With Men's Intramurals nearing the finish, Sigma Nu approaches the honor of winning the 1960-61 Intramural Championship for total points.

Sigma Nu boasts victories in tennis, archery, horseshoes, bowling and ping pong. Phi Kappa Psi compiled the winning scores in the fraternity relays and swimming. Other individual sport winners were Delta Tau Delta, Sigma Chi, and Phi Sigma Kappa.

With basketball, track, soccor and softball yet to go, Sigma Nu seem to be fairly sure of victory. Beta Theta Pi and Pi Kappa Alpha are runners-up at this point.

This year, West Virginia's Intramural Program has reached its greatest expansion, consisting of 16 sports.

This year's soccer tournament is a new one for Mountaineers, and if Coach Maurice has his way, soccer will become an intercollegiate sport next year.

Sam Maurice came here in 1958, and has been spending full time developing the sports program in the all-campus sense. After graduating from Indiana University, he coached at Monmouth High School in Illinois. He then returned to Indiana to teach Physical Education until coming to the University.

MONTICOLA SALUTES

During a period of four or five years, many individuals accomplish much, but a few individuals seem to excel. Each year the MONTICOLA attempts to select those individuals who on the bases of past performances have displayed that certain quality to excel.

In selecting the twenty most outstanding 1961 graduates, the choice was difficult, but the selecting began four years ago as a new freshman class enrolled at West Virginia University. Over the period of four years the lots were cast and excellence was accomplished.

To comment on the individual merits of these twenty is unnecessary, but behind the choices are a great deal of interest in campus matters, fairly respectable grades, and long hours of extra service. For these they are honored.

THE BUCK STOPS HER

SARAH BRAWLEY
Student Body Vice-President

The Executive Council, known in terms of power politics as the President and his council, is composed of the various class presidents and vice-presidents and headed by the Student Body President and Vice-President. This group is responsible for the political patronage on campus operating under the old rule of "to the victor goes the spoils."

This year's Executive Council, being dominated by the Student Party, was unique in that it successfully completed eight of its ten campaign promises. Among its achievements were the arrival of the mast of the U.S.S. West Virginia, the establishment of a student book exchange, and support of the student tutoring society.

The responsibilities of the Executive Council are many, but basically it is the executive branch of student government and as such it is responsible for the carrying out of policies made by the Student Legislature and for incorporating new programs in the area of Student Government. The hours are long and the rewards are few for the individuals on the Executive Council, but all can take pride in a job well done.

STUDENT LEGISLATURE

The student legislature is the policy-making branch of our student government. Its membership is composed of representatives of each college and school in the University in proportion to the size of its enrollment. Most major projects of student government are authorized or inspired by the resolutions of the legislature. Under its power to make all regulations necessary and proper to promote the general welfare of the student body, it formulates many student government policies. The legislature confirms or rejects the appointments made by the Student Body President and the Student Body Executive Council, determines the rules of freshmen traditions, sponsors traditional week ends and special events, appropriates student government funds, and requires reports from student committees and organizations under its jurisdiction.

STUDENT COURT

The University Student Court is composed of seven members of the student body who are not members of the Legislature. Members are the Summit of Mountain, ranking men's honorary, Emperor of Sphinx, senior men's honorary, the President of Associated Women Students, and the President of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary. Three additional members are appointed by the President of the Student Body and the Chief Justice is elected from the Court's own membership.

It is within the power of the Court to determine offenses and penalties of various infractions to campus rules, propose corrections in the content of legislative amendments to the Student Body Constitution, and to render judgments on any other issues presented to it by the Legislature or Executive Council.

SECRETARIAT

Accomplishing the unglamorous work of Student Government by typing, filing, and running errands, the Secretariat is the unheralded arm of the Student Government. The coeds in this group contribute untiringly of their time and talents so that the Student Government office can continue to function in an orderly manner and better serve the student body.

AUXILIARY AGENCIES

Conducting a major portion of Student Government's routine but necessary functions is the responsibility of the various Auxiliary Agencies composed of Publicity, Public Relations, Elections, and Finance. Publicity throughout the state is the primary responsibility of the Publicity Committee. To coordinate better relations between the University and the city of Morgantown is the aim of the Public Relations Committee. Student elections requiring many workers and much time is the function of the Elections Committee. To prevent graft and corruption from entering the Student Government, the Finance Committee was organized.

Seated: Anne Harris and Ruthalee Markle, Elections Committee Coordinators. Standing: Stan Yost, Student Body Treasurer; Gary Spencer, Publicity Committee. Absent: Hu Vandervort, Public Relations.

EDUCATIONAL AWARENESS COMMISSION

A vital phase of Student Government is the enlightenment of the student body on special problems confronting this complex world. This function is conducted by the State Awareness, National Awareness, International Awareness, and Culture Committees. Confronting the student body with the problems of West Virginia, as well as presenting to the Mountain State's citizens the problems of the University, is part of the work of State Awareness. National Awareness conducts an active program of presenting a clearer picture of the national scene. International Awareness Week is one of the major contributions of that committee to the campus. Encompassing all these phases of awareness plus others is the Culture Committee which constantly strives to increase the cultural level of the campus by attracting outstanding speakers and entertainers in many different fields.

COORDINATORS OF STUDENT AFFAIRS

The various campus week ends are a well-known function of this branch of Student Government, but also included in this area are such activities as Spiriteers, Freshman Orientation, and Transfer Orientation. While this body does not function as a group, every individual in this group is responsible for an important activity in the total picture of Student Government.

Associated Women Students is the governing body of the women on the campus at West Virginia. Its membership is composed of all women enrolled in the University. The officers of this organization form a council of fourteen members. The function of this council is to maintain the high scholastic and ethical standards of the women students.

AWS is not only concerned with the moral and proper modes of conduct, but it annually sponsors the Golddiggers Ball which is one of the campus social highlights of the year. This organization offers ample evidence to society that American students are desirous of, and are exceedingly capable of, governing their activities and behavior with due discretion.

PUBLICATIONS

PUBLICATION COMMITTEE

In an effort to curb irresponsible student journalists and to protect the good name of the University, the Publications Committee was organized. This committee, composed of the advisors to all of the official University publications, the legal advisor, and three student members appointed by Student Government, is responsible for appointing the student executives for the various publications and acting as a general advisor to these publications.

This is one of the few committees on our well-organized campus which must represent defunct activities. While it does represent the active MONTICOLA, Daily Athenaeum, and Notes To New Mountaineers, it must also oversee the activity of the nonoperative Monongahela, campus literary magazine, and Moonshine, campus humor magazine. While the confusion of Student Legislature investigations and other such publicized activities goes on, it is the Publications Committee that performs its task in a quiet, efficient manner.

DAILY ATHENEAUM

The Daily Atheneaum is the news pulse of the University. Functioning under the managerial leadership of Professor Paul Adkins, the staff of editors, leg men, business and advertising crews, the DA serves the campus with four daily editions a week.

With the aim of keeping a busy University community informed with the latest news happenings, the DA strives to maintain complete coverage of the news. Besides this, the newspaper voice of the University attempts to offer maximum service to the students by a diversified advertising program, and by printing special editions at such major weekends as Homecoming, Mountaineer, Greater West Virginia; and for distribution by the Mountaineer Week Team members.

To aid the staff in complete news coverage, the Daily Atheneaum subscribes to the UPI wire service and West Virginia Press Association. Aside from these major news outlets, the various editors—Society, Sports, and News—endeavor to spotlight the current events of local interest with colorful features and an off-editorial page to supplement the students' opinions. Together, these facets are augmented with a versatile photography staff to provide the University with day-to-day coverage of the news.

THETA SIGMA PHI

The women's journalism honorary is known as Theta Sigma Phi. They subscribe to a lofty purpose containing the recognition of outstanding women in the field of communications, the promotion of a free and responsible press, and the encouragement of women journalists to better journalistic heights.

The organization was responsible, in cooperation with Sigma Delta Chi, for a reception held for freshman and sophomore journalism students in an effort to stimulate a more active interest in journalism and related arts. The main social event of the year is the Spring Banquet, although organization and planning are not a prerequisite for their social activities and often spontaneous events are held.

This year marks the first full year of operation at West Virginia University, and the year has been an active one for the organization displaying remarkable growth.

Among the many projects undertaken by SDX were the rehabilitating of the chimes in Woodburn Hall, selling programs at home basketball games, sponsoring a full scholarship to a student with demonstrated journalistic ability and need, and cooperation with Theta Sigma Phi in an undergraduate reception.

The group was well represented at the national convention in New York and plans are underway to expand the local organization to encompass those in the professional ranks. The principal social functions include a fall party and a spring banquet.

1961 MONTICOLA

The 1961 MONTICOLA represents many laborious sessions resulting in a single opportunity for success or failure. The staff, from editor down to rewrite secretaries, must be prepared to meet the judgments of the reader once the book is published in May.

Under the driving force of Editor-in-Chief Carl Ekstrom, the MONTICOLA has attempted to capture the experiences and campus activities of a year at West Virginia University. Together with his business manager, Sam Brushel, and the various sectional editors—Art, Beauties, Events, Photography, Sports, Classes, Greeks, Honoraries, Organizations, Copy, and Secretaries—these are the backbone of a staff numbering in the fifties.

The planning of the book is begun one year in advance with the selection of the staff and initial planning. Culminating with the final editing and proofreading and distributing of the books, the cycle is ready for repetition for another year.

This year's MONTICOLA is presented to the Student Body with the hope that it has successfully summarized a variable cross-section of campus functions, each representative of the emphasis and influence of our Alma Mater.

The primary purposes of Agriclub are to encourage interest in agriculture and to provide a common core for all divisions in the School of Agriculture. Seeking to foster friendship and fellowship among agriculture students, this organization annually sponsors an Agriculture School-Faculty-Freshman Barbecue. To stimulate interest in farming in other countries, Agriclub sponsors an educational series on world-wide agriculture.

Alpha Kappa Psi is the oldest professional commerce fraternity. Beta Rho chapter at West Virginia University was established with the purpose of promoting the interests of commerce, and for the mutual aid of its members in college and later in professional life. Activities of the fraternity include speakers discussing economics and business for students and the general public, industrial tours, research projects, services to the University, as well as social functions for the members which include banquets and various spring outings. On the basis of efficiency contests conducted among all the chapters of Alpha Kappa Psi, West Virginia's chapter was among the highest.

Chimes members are chosen on the basis of scholarship, service, and leadership within the University community. Each spring after the members are chosen, they are pledged at the traditional Link Day ceremonies on the Library Terrace which inaugurates Greater West Virginia Weekend. Chimes was born in June of 1948 when Rhododendron, Junior Women's honorary, became affiliated with the national honorary, Chimes.

Special activities include the sale of beanies to freshman women and the enforcement of freshman traditions. Chimes promotes many cultural and educational activities which includes the presentation of awards to Junior women with averages of 3.5 or better during their sophomore year. This organization also renders valuable assistance by providing a standing loan for students needing aid.

Banding together with the idea that organized confusion will result in greater accomplishments than unorganized chaos, a group of non-affiliated coeds rebelled from the Independent Student Association on the grounds that the University Administration was frowning on such integrated activities and that they desired to assume a more dignified name. In their rebellion, they formed a small group known as Cavalettes, taking the name from an old burlesque act.

The first years were a difficult period for this band of determined women, but by the guiding light of the Master Cavalette, the group was able to weather the storm and has become a formidable organization on campus. Organized with the purpose of providing a social outlet for independent women, the Cavalettes have expanded their activities and now encompass a wide range of projects. Under the bond of unity they are able to participate in such activities as the Sphinx Talent Show and the women's intramural program.

From the social aspect, the Cavalette's calendar is always filled. The Christmas Dance is never a failure and the Spring Formal is the highlight of the year, but the real treat comes from those swinging parties and activities with their male counterparts, Cavaliers.

Being as traditional-minded as the Mountaineer Statue which they annually construct, the group known as Cavaliers searched back into the traditional period of Charles I in England for a name. Discovering that the two political parties of that time were the Cavaliers and the Roundheads, they chose the name of the former for apparent reasons.

Since its founding, this band of gallant men has been composed of non-affiliated men including a core from the subversive organization known as ISA. While the membership of this group has fluctuated considerably, the success of dependable leaders has enabled the body to continue functioning.

Realizing the need to expand their activities beyond the scope of statue building and basketball playing, the Cavaliers reportedly secured financial backing from a popular brand of vodka and were thus able to hold numerous friendly parties. Becoming increasingly moderate with age, the Cavaliers now confine their social life to weekly smokers, several picnics, the Christmas Party, and Spring Formal, not to mention the joint activities with the Cavalettes.

In 1936 Dolphin was established to offer to the student an opportunity to study the art of treading water from an academic standpoint. However, the 69 members of Dolphin represent the heart of a struggling university attempting to stay afloat.

Their activities include synchronized water movement exercises and spin-the-bouy. From a practical viewpoint, they also learn to combat such hazardous situations as jumping from suspension bridges without nose and ear plugs; and how to rescue a drowning swimmer in an iron lung.

The Spring Pageant is a gala event made up of such heartwarming frolics as "Run Scuba Run" games, diving contests, and the presentation of the Ernie "Rolectric" Zablotskie Award. This award is presented annually to the swimmer who can most swiftly assemble his electric razor on the bottom of the pool and shave one side of a peach.

Not that they're all wet, no indeed. The men and mermaids of Dolphin strive to improve their breathing capacity —"what lungs."

Canes, bathrobes, and derbies are the chosen attire of the men's campus Mock Honorary. More than just an outlet for good times and recognition of campus social leadership, the men of Fi Batar comprise one of the backbone groups that focus on the Mountaineer spirit. Although these men represent the major portion of the social strength in fraternal circles, they often channel their exhuberance along serious and worthwhile veins. This year the Fi Baters financially supported the Cheerleaders. They were also responsible, with Spokes, for the student portion of the United Fund Drive.

At thuses and home football games the pledges of Fi Batar make sure that enthusiasm never dies, regardless of the scoreboard influence. Many a disheartening loss has been spared the mental anguish that accompanies defeat by the boisterous, humorous antics of these men in the bathrobes. This in itself merits campus acknowledgement. When our team wins, it's easy to cheer, but during the unfortunate periods when the score and spirit begin to spiral downward, the Fi Batars are always there, canes and cokes in hand, ready to scream their heads off to start a cheer. To this end they are a vital part of the University; they furnish the student body with a social pep pill.

Kappa Delta Pi is a national honor society in education whose purpose is to encourage high professional, intellectual and personal standards, and to recognize outstanding contributions in the field of education.

Membership is conditional upon high scholarship and desirable personal and professional qualities. Alpha Upsilon chapter was founded on our campus on July 21, 1927, and now boasts an active membership of over 130 students and faculty. This year Kappa Delta Pi has been especially interested in fostering a sense of professionalism in the undergraduate by having group discussions on topics pertinent to the interests of education, with leaders of high professional status rendering advice. The honor society is sponsored by Dr. Eddie Kennedy.

Italiano

Il Circolo Italiano, Italian honorary, was founded with the purpose of recognizing outstanding students in the study of Italian, and to create an active interest in Italian culture. Since its original founding, the club has consistently maintained the original high standards; but it has incorporated a new area of development which has resulted in increased stature for the organization. This outstanding development has been the establishment of an active foreign Art Film Series, which strives to bring the most recent and highly regarded foreign films to the campus at a nominal cost.

In reviewing the history of Il Circolo Italiano, the earliest records for the existence of the Italian Club on the campus of West Virginia University date from the tenth of December, 1921.

It was in 1956, with Mr. John Flasher as its advisor, that the organization was established on a firm basis, and the constitution of the club was revised. Through the renewed efforts of the organization, a cultural program was instituted to bring foreign films to the campus, a program that was urgently needed to fill the gap in accessible presentations of art films from outside the United States, and a program that would also supplement language coaching curriculums in the University language classes.

The program began with an ambitious start in 1956 when five motion pictures were presented during the school year. The following year this number was increased until the present time when eight or nine outstanding films are presented each semester.

In September, 1960, Il Circolo Italiano and its Art Film Series came under the guiding influence of Professor Frederick W. Franck, its new faculty advisor. Under Professor Franck's direction, the film series has broken all the records in attendance and contributions for this past semester. Recognition of the club's vital service to the University would not be complete without mention of Professor Warren Manning, Chairman of the Department of Romance Languages, whose advice and aid has been vital to the success of the Art Film Series. Many of the other departments of the University have been interested in the film series and have been instrumental in promoting its success. Another individual who was an enthusiastic backer of this club and its activities was President Elvis J. Stahr, Jr.

While the Art Film Series, during its brief period of existence, has become an established institution on campus, growth is expected in the program and improvement is anticipated. It is, therefore, an established purpose of Il Circolo Italiano to continue its sponsorship of the Art Film Series and to provide the campus and community with an invaluable cultural attraction.

Beginning the fall school session with the annual "Teepee Tea" for freshman women, this active group projects its activities calendar to include workshops, members speaking during W.U.S. Week, sponsorship of Freshman Project Committees, Dorm Sandwich Sales, and the spring social gathering, known as the "Highbrow Hen Party," honoring freshman coeds with better than 3.0 averages.

Special awards and honors include the presentation of a scholarship awarded to an outstanding freshman woman at the Mother's Day Sing.

Socially, the group partys with Helvetia, and attends dinner meetings when busy schedules and diets allow.

Being comprised of outstanding academic women students, it is only natural that the primary attention of the organization should be focused upon this central purpose: to serve West Virginia University, to honor outstanding freshman women, and to foster projects aimed at integrating Freshmen into the campus scene.

To promote college loyalty and service, and to emphasize scholastic achievement among senior women—this is the aim of Mortar Board. Serving as senior women's scholastic honorary, Mortar Board has for its primary purpose the promotion of the cultural and educational aspects of university life.

During the weeks prior to Homecoming Weekend, the familiar ticket booths can be seen at various strategic campus locations. The smiling figure inside, bedecked in graduating attire, stands ready to sell passers-by a Mum. This annual sale of Mums has become such a campus tradition that nary a fellow dares venture toward the stadium for the Homecoming football game without having first made sure that his date will sport a yellow mum corsage.

The group also serves as co-sponsor of the Freshman Mix. Social activities include an initiation banquet and a Senior Week picnic usually held at Laurel Cottage.

A special award is given to freshmen women excelling in scholarship and an honor roll is placed in the office of the Dean of Women.

Mountain, West Virginia University's ranking men's honorary, was founded in 1904. It is composed of twenty-seven select members who have distinguished themselves in scholarship, campus leadership, and service to the University.

Most of Mountain's real contributions to the campus community go by unrecognized because this organization is dedicated to the service of the University and seeks no self-gain, except that of sharing in building a better school and state. Some of its more recent and better publicized activities have included campaigns for public safety, the sponsorship of Helvetia, sophomore men's honorary, inculcating loyalty to campus traditions and strengthening the bonds between various alumni and their "alma mater." The best known project of Mountain is the ever familiar "Mountaineer" with his sturdy rifle, who serves as the symbol of the University and the "Mountain State."

To deepen their appreciation for the mountaineer tradition, this organization requires its members to participate on a rigorous mountain hike prior to their initiation. This, of course, is culminated in the real mountaineer way as members and honored guests sit down to a meal of West Virginia's native dish—milk 'n mush.

Founded in 1917 to serve the Catholic student population, the doors of Newman Hall are daily opened to the utilization of the recreational and counseling services available to all students. Morning may find the Hall crowded with students socializing over coffee and doughnuts. The social calendar consists of monthly get-togethers, intramural functions and card parties, and is highlighted by the Moonlight Prom. These are the knitting ties that hold the unity of the largest campus religious society.

The serious aspects of the Newman Club are contained basically in the outline of its purpose: this being to motivate religious, intellectual and social activities to the Catholic, and to provide a parish and guidance service coupled with teachings in the Catholic faith. An example of the deeply founded religious practices, as exercised by the Church, are the daily masses held in St. John's Chapel.

Facilities for student use include such accomodations as a cafeteria, library, and lounge. Father Donnovan is the sponsor of Newman Club.

Closely associated with the Wesleyan Student service, is the fellowship of the Methodist women's society, Kappa Phi. More than just another organization, this sorority is known for its extensive service in providing guidance, friendship, and worship opportunities.

Its membership boasts better than a hundred and can be observed on various occasions during the academic year as they assemble to worship "in spirit and truth." The purpose of Kappa Phi centers on this premise: "to promote Christian fellowship among University women."

In addition to these serious aspects of religious student activity, the organization also contributes liberally in time and energy to such worthwhile service projects as clothing drives and maintainence of the Church nursery. Occasionally, the group takes to the road and visits area rest homes and hospitals.

Social activities include the Rose Tea, Spring Rose Formal, and the "big" and "little" sister party. To stimulate group interest within the organization, an award is presented annually to the outstanding pledge.

Sigma Theta Epsilon, national fraternity for men of Methodist preference, works closely in connection with the activities of Wesley Foundation and the Wesley Methodist Church. This fraternity strives to give its membership an understanding of the arts of living and to give the Church and community trained leaders dedicated to principles of the Kingdom of God and the high ideals of honor and character found therein. In personal life, each member seeks to maintain a regular schedule of daily private worship and Bible study, thus orienting his life around Jesus Christ as the Lord and Master of life. Recognizing that the essential qualities of manhood know no creed or station in life, this fellowship realizes the continuity of the Divine within each person and seeks to appreciate and cultivate that quality.

Mu chapter with its 45 members has lived up to its high purposes through sending deputation teams to local churches and aid to community settlement houses. A social calendar is filled with various activities including STE-Kappa Phi Spring Dance, Pledge-Active Banquet and numerous parties and outings.

WESLEY FOUNDATION

Wesley Foundation provides the Methodist student with "a home away from the home church." Sunday mornings are highlighted by a coffee hour which is followed by the student class. A warm evening meal is provided by the foundation for the students each Sunday evening. This meal is followed by Evening Vespers which includes a spiritual message by a student or a guest speaker.

The fellowship of this large student Christian organization does not exist only on Sundays. Many of its 200 members often drop into the second-floor activities room during the weekdays for TV or that mid-morning coffee break.

The serious aspects of this group are carried out through special service projects such as the Christmas party for underprivileged children at Osage, and service to the Methodist Church, since many students serve as lay speakers. These activities serve the basic purpose of the Foundation: "to provide religious education for its members and opportunities for Christian service in the denomination's smaller congregations."

These provide the college student with the necessary background to balance out the active social and academic facilities of the individual's college life.

Seasonal social activities include the Christmas Dance—the "Jingle Bell Ball"—Valentine party and the annual Mother's Day Banquet.

Sponsor for the group is the Reverend David Riffe, Wesley minister to students.

Since its establishment in 1925, the Westminister Student Fellowship foundation has never lost its zeal to provide the means for Christian study, service and fellowship in the academic community.

This year the Presbyterian student group has reached out its arm of opportunity to offer its members a chance to put Christian understanding into the service of the campus community and church. As a special project, the group has supported a Korean war orphan by participating in an international world-betterment program.

Not only is this one of the most active religious youth organizations on campus, but its 150-membership total boasts one of the largest also. Sunday evening at 7 p.m. usually finds a large group of Presbyterian young people gathered at the church activities room leisurely discussing the weekly events and distilling them through the religious vein of conversation. These study groups are a major facet of the evening activities.

The Rev. Robert M. Henry, student pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, serves as sponsor for the group.

To cultivate and strengthen the spiritual life of Lutheran students through worship, study and fellowship comprise the mainspring of the purpose of the Lutheran Student Association

Every Sunday evening the LSA Center opens its doors to offer students an opportunity to study ways in which all facets of college life can be blended together and made more Christian-like. But aside from the serious note of this organization, a social calendar made up of picnics and regional conferences serve to fulfill a lighter vein in the Christian life.

The Rev. Don Moeser, student intern pastor, serves as sponsor for the group.

The Charles E. Yeager Squadron, of the aeronautical group on campus, stressing "Nationalism" in a militaristic manner, is found to be a select group of thoroughly schooled cadets. Keyed from Atlanta, this group marches forth to the Cadet Lounge of Woodburn Hall each Thursday at Seven, post meridian, to perform their professional service in the manner of "mission fulfillment." Its members are chosen on the basis of high academic achievement and the Air Force Officers Qualifying Test. Sponsoring the Arnold Air Society Banquet preceding the Military Ball, the Arnold Air Society precision drill team, and flag-raising at home football games, they are very nearly termed an over-active elite. The cream of the Advanced Air Force Officers Training Corps is chosen from the Junior and Senior classes each fall, and, after carrying their blue and yellow inscribed paddles, but never an umbrella, strapped to their belts for three months, they are finally initiated into the mysteries of never-ending boot-polishing.

Combining the best of the militaristically-minded students in ROTC, Pershing Rifles has always strived to encourage, develop and preserve ideals of the military profession; and create a closer relations between members and officers within the organization. In addition PR has always existed to further the purpose of providing recognition of outstanding military ability among the cadets of the senior units.

Among the various activities of this organization at the regimental and national levels include formation of a drill team, rifle matches, drill meets, and the enjoyable Christmas Dance. Intersquad functions include a "sham battle" between pledges and actives, and participation in various Morgantown parades. The group also attends the Apple Blossom Festival and gives a drill exhibition during Greater West Virginia Weekend. As service projects, the group has worked at improving The Chestnut Ridge and 4-H Camp Sites. Pershing Rifles, a nationwide organization, was installed on campus in 1956. SCABBARD AND BLADE

Firmly implanted within the organizational setup of the Army, as the "B" within the "S", one finds the Military Honorary fostering the essential qualities necessary for the procurement of future officers. Scabbard and Blade has become quite an instrument in uniting a closer relationship between the military department and the University. Drawing their somewhat rusty and romantic swords in crossed formation at various times during the year, they add a flash to such campus functions as Homecoming and Mountaineer Weekend. Juniors and Seniors who have maintained a "C" average and possess a high degree of officer potentiality qualify for membership.

ESTABLISHED 1924

From Wesleyan Female College in Georgia came Alpha Epsilon of Alpha Delta Pi. Special projects include Memorial Fellowship Fund aid to handicapped children. With Donna Gail leading the sturdy group and Judy Yost taking care of the finances, the A.D.Pi's have proven themselves hard to beat in intramurals competition. Carole Johnson had the honor of reigning as Miss Fairmont, and pleasantly represented her sisters and her city in the Miss West Virginia Pageant. Social activities held each year by the group are the Christmas Party and the Alpha Delta Pi Formal in April.

ESTABLISHED 1930

After Alpha Phi's national founding at Syracuse in 1872, Beta Iota Chapter found its way to the University campus in 1930. All the Alpha Phi's are well represented in honoraries and extracurricular activities. This year the MONTICOLA is honored by three Alpha Phi queen candidates, while other outstanding girls include the Vice-President of the Senior Class, Lady of Spring for 1960, and President of Y.W.C.A. Beta Iota was the winner of Alpha Phi's International Efficiency Award, presented at their 1960 convention. Despite a busy schedule, this chapter helps the heart drive and does volunteer work at the Vincent Palotti Hospital. After placing third among the Homecoming floats, and having their annual Christmas Party, they round out the year with their spring formal.

ESTABLISHED 1905

Alpha Xi Delta—the first national sorority established on the W.V.U. campus—is proud of the many trophies she has received during the past year. The biggest honor has been the tall brick addition that makes it possible for all of the "Fuzzies" to live under one roof. The new trophy room, the Pine Room, holds the golden honors won by the Alpha Xi's, including the retired cup for the third-time winner of the Sphinx Mothers Day Sing, for Homecoming Queen, Sigma Nu Sweetheart, Men's Panhellenic Queen, Pi Kappa Alpha Sweetheart, and Phi Sigma Kappa Sweetheart. The pledge class scholarship cup, won for the third consecutive year, the second-place honor in the Sphinx Talent Show, and the place of first in scholarship last spring are recent accomplishments. Iota members engage in many campus activities such as Spokes President, Junior Class Vice-President, Li-Toon-Awa Treasurer, and two of the twenty top seniors on campus.

ESTABLISHED 1905

Founded at the University of Arkansas on April 5, 1895, and on this campus in June, 1905, the Theta Chapter of Chi Omega has since become one of the sorority's outstanding chapters. Wasting no time in getting the year off to a good start, the wearers of the X and the horseshoe immediately went to work as busy little carpenters building a first-place Homecoming Float. Having retained their title as float-builders for two consecutive years, the Chi O's then settled back at 506 N. High Street for some serious studying and another try at being first in scholarship. As a grand finale for all this hard work and study, the girls entertain at their annual active-alumnae elusis. Then before cramming for finals they have a final fling at their Spring Formal held each April.

ESTABLISHED 1955

Thanksgiving Eve, 1888, brought about the founding of Delta Delta Delta. From this thankful beginning the Tri-Delts have expanded until Phi Iota Chapter was established at W.V.U. in 1955. Since that time, they have placed in the Homecoming Float competition for three consecutive years, awarded scholarships to deserving campus women, and produced several campus leaders, such as AWS Secretary, Mu Phi Epsilon Vice-President, and Alpha Delta Theta President. Among other listings on their busy social calendar, you'll find an Apple-Polishing Party, a Christmas Shocking Stocking Party, and a Spring Formal in May. This year the Tri-Delts had tri-number of homes, one at E. Moore Hall, one on College Avenue, and their chapter house on Spruce Street.

ESTABLISHED 1922

Alpha Xi Chapter of Delta Gamma established their charter at W.V.U. in 1922 after their national founding in 1873 in Oxford, Mississippi. The D.G.'s held a variety of interests in student affairs, some of which were the Vice-President of the Sophomore Class, Secretary of Panhellenic, two varsity cheerleaders, two freshman cheerleaders, Vice-President of Li-Toon-Awa, Coordinator of International Awareness, a freshman princess of Homecoming Weekend, and two Pan Queen finalists. Placing scholarship high on their list of goals, the D.G.'s captured third place in campus scholarship and held five of the sixteen openings in the sophomore women's honorary. Displaying foresight, they aid the blind as their national philanthropy project. Delta Gamma has an annual Christmas Party and anchors the men at their April Formal.

ESTABLISHED 1951

The Kappa Delta Sorority arrived late on the campus of West Virginia University. After 46 years of service, dating from their founding at Longwood College, Farmville, Virginia, Kappa Delta established local headquarters in 1951. The K.D.'s love to sing and managed to prove it by winning second place in the Mother's Day Sing. With the A.W.S. President passing out restrictions, campuses, and understanding to all female undergraduates, and a varsity cheerleader holding up the spirit of the students, the white rose and their sorority colors, olive green and white, mean a great deal to the sisters. The K.D.'s help to feed the patients at Vincent Palotti Hospital, and nationally they sponsor an award at the Crippled Children's Hospital in Richmond, Virginia.

ESTABLISHED 1906

"I am so happy that I am a Kappa, Kappa Kappa Gamma," sing the girls originating the first chapter at Monmouth College in 1870 and the Beta Upsilon Chapter on this campus in 1906. With the Panhellenic President cracking the whip at Panhellenic meetings, the singing lead of "Brigadoon" enchanting audiences, the Mortar Board President leading her exclusive flock, and a host of other campus leaders fulfilling various campus functions, the sisters have a right to wear the golden key "way up high for all to see." The Kappa's in "Child Fantasy" stole the hearts of the judges and the audiences with their performance in the Sphinx Talent Show, and the hearts of their dates at their Spring Formal held in April.

ESTABLISHED 1918

On September 21, 1918, West Virginia's Alpha Chapter of Pi Beta Phi came to the campus of W.V.U. The sorority was founded nationally on April 28, 1867, at that breeder of sororities, Monmouth College, Monmonth, Illinois. Following the outstanding leadership of their Student Body Veep, the Pi Phi's wasted no time before treading in her footsteps by obtaining a majority of the key positions at the 'Lair. With the golden arrow guiding them onward, they were delighted to have the Mountaineer Queen and Monticola Queen within their bonds of fraternal spirit. Among the philanthropy projects of Pi Beta Phi is their work with the Settlement School. Their social activities of the year are highlighted by their annual Christmas Party and Spring Formal.

With unfailing regularity, the representatives from the nineteen fraternal lodges on campus assemble to discuss mutual problems and unveil new schemes to confuse the campus. Establishing tighter reigns on their member groups, the IFC has been able to invoke cooperation and establish a very smooth-running machine.

The better-known activities of this important group are the supervision of that madness known as Rush Week and an equally confused period known as Universal Initiation Week, the sponsorship of that social highlight known as Greek Week, and the stimulation of scholarship and good conduct among the Greek men on campus. IFC also provides the vital link between the fraternities and the University administration.

In this day of increasing control and regulation, the IFC has become an essential part of the fraternity system, and the work which they accomplish merits considerable credit.

ESTABLISHED 1924

Founded by several ambitious brothers who decided to work their way through school by farming, the AGRs began handing out hoes instead of pledge pins to prospective pledges. This practice ceased when they discovered that it was less work not to grow anything and rely on the government's Soil Bank Program.

Abandoning their farming ways, the AGRs have branched out into various phases of campus life and have produced some outstanding leaders including the Mountaineer Week Team Captain, President of Block and Bridle, President of Alpha Zeta, and a host of representatives on various campus honoraries including Mountain, Sphinx, and Helvetia. To increase this well-roundedness, they engage in their share of the social life between periods of winning fraternity scholarship honors, with the Pink Rose Formal being the highlight of the social calendar.

ESTABLISHED 1900

Beta Theta Pi—the oldest national fraternity represented at West Virginia University—stands proudly in its house at the summit of fraternity row. The Betas have succeeded in identifying themselves with this location through representation in the honoraries of Sphinx, Fi Batar Cappar, Mountain, and Helvetia. Outstanding members in athletics are no less familiar, including a few varsity basketball stars, a pair of wrestling champs, an ace track man, and a Southern Conference Swimming Champion. The W.V.U. Mountaineer and the "A.W.S. Biggest Catch" are also representatives of this exclusive group.

High on the list of social events are the Beta Barn Party, Bohemian Brawl, Jungle Party, The World of Suzie Wong, and Maverick parties. The highlight of the year is Miami Triad which the Betas turn into a lost week-end at the end of May.

ESTABLISHED 1860

Gamma Delta Chapter of Delta Tau Delta, the first house on fraternity row, sang their way to a second-place victory in the Mother's Day Sing under the leadership of their song leader and president, Joe Johnston. Other outstanding Delt leaders are found in such activities as football, basketball, wrestling and politics. An All-American in riflery has brought many honors not only to his chapter, but also to the entire University. Highlights of the Delt's social calendar are the annual Christmas Formal, Sewer Party, Gunsmoke Party, Shipwreck Party, and various "tea parties." The main occasion that each Delt girl looks forward to is their Spring Formal each May.

ESTABLISHED 1897

A group of "Rebels" in 1865 formed an organization to keep the spirit of the Old South alive. They took the name of Kappa Alpha Order and planted the Confederate flag at West Virginia in 1897. Ever since, the K.A.'s have been singing "Dixie" to their rebel ancestors. Among the outstanding rebel leaders are MONTICOLA Editor, Senior Class President, Vice-President of I.F.C., and Helvetia President. The rebel battles include a Hillbilly Party, a Gay 90's Party, and a French Apache Party. True to their tradition, the K.A.'s held their Black and White Formal in January and set aside a week in May to help the "old south reign again."

ESTABLISHED 1918

In 1869, Kappa Sigma was founded nationally at the University of Virginia and in 1918 Gamma Phi Chapter was established on W.V.U. campus. Kappa Sig's are outstanding in Sphinx, Fi Batar Cappar, and many honoraries. The president of Mountainlair and W.V.U.'s Band Drum Major also live on the hill. In 1960, the Kappa Sigs sang to a first place in the Mother's Day Sing with "Seeing Nellie Home." Annually, a pajama party, Christmas Party, Bar and Grill Party and Western Party are held. In April, Kappa Sigma shines at their Star and Crescent Formal. Often the pastime of pinning dims that shine for a moment and leads to the traditional well-dunking.

ESTABLISHED 1906

Phi Kappa Sigma, known in some circles as Disciples of Captain Kidd, was founded at the University of Pennsylvania in 1850. Since that time they have expanded throughout the United States and Canada, making the long voyage to the University campus in 1906.

The Phi Kaps are well established on campus, holding a number of key positions. Enlisted under their pirate banner are the Head Cheerleader, the DA Co-Sports Editor, the organizer of the Sphinx madness known as a talent show, and several other brothers holding membership on various steering committees and honoraries.

Socially, the Phi Kaps are always successful. The big event of the year is the Black and Gold Formal with numerous parties, including the Pirate Party, creating much talk around campus.

Phi Sigma Delta found its way nationally in 1909 to Columbia University, with Upsilon Chapter being established at W.V.U. in 1927. For their philanthropy, Phi Sigma Delts have an underprivileged children's Christmas Party. Many parties are planned during the year, such as a Halloween Party, Pledge Skit Party, Thanksgiving Affair and a May Formal. Some of Phi Sigma Delta's outstanding members are Malcolm Kerstein, who is in Helvetia and Sphinx, and has attended Leadership Conference. Leonard J. Koenick, who is president of Hillel Foundation, is also in the Forestry Club and National Agricultural Honorary, Alpha Zeta. Jack Davis is Vice-President of Beta Alpha Psi, accounting honorary, a member of Alpha Kappa Psi, commerce fraternity, and Student Legislature. David Joel is Mountainlair public relations chairman and a freshman guide.

ESTABLISHED 1891

Founded at Massachusetts Agricultural College in 1873, Phi Sigma Kappa established Delta Chapter as a part of W.V.U. in 1891. In the midst of fraternity row, the Phi Sigs grasped the I.F.C. All Year Cup for the second straight year. Spotted from afar and carefully guarded by Missy, the house has opened its doors to the Viking Party, Roaring 20's Party, Christmas Party, and sorority parties. The Viking Party has become a true mainstay while a Luau is an up-and-coming event. Phi Sigs hold their own in Helvetia, Fi Batar Cappar, Sphinx, Mountain and Pharmacy Honoraries. A Moonlight Formal in April brought the social season to a close.

ESTABLISHED 1904

In 1904, a group of young collegians arrived in Morgantown via the railroad, and upon disembarking, stole the train's bell which became the rallying point for this adventuresome group. Since this time, the bell has become a well-known symbol on campus, and the group a well-established fraternity.

Among those held within the bonds of brotherhood of Pi KA are such campus leaders as the Emperor of Sphinx, DA Business Manager, President of YMCA, a popular University Theater comedian, and numerous members of various campus honoraries, organizations and committees. Not only are the Pi KA's leaders in campus events, but they are social leaders as well with such memorable events as the Dream Girl Formal.

ESTABLISHED 1895

The blue and the gold arrived in "Mudville, U.S.A." in May of 1895, with the founding of Mu Mu. Since that time they have paid heed to their motto, "In this sign we conquer," by winning first place in the Homecoming Float competition. Weary from their trip from Miami University, the brothers decided to set aside a week end every year to relax. This resting period is better known as Miami Triad. However, finding that they needed more rest, the Sigma Chis have a Losers party, a Sadie Hawkins Party and a Gangsters Party.

ESTABLISHED 1904

Founded in 1869, Sigma Nu was established on the campus of W.V.U. in 1904. Placing third in the Annual Sphinx Talent Show in 1961 with their "Calypso" singing, and ranking high in the intramural competition as they usually do, the Sigma Nu's spent many hours with their binoculars at their home on Belmar Avenue. The President of IFC led the fraternities into a more co-operative spirit, seeing that all rules and regulations were enforced, while the Student Body President guided the efforts of the struggling student body and other Sigma Nu's led the Mountaineer basketball team in past and present years. Their White Rose Formal held each year shows that the Sigma Nu's can be charming as well as athletic.

ESTABLISHED 1903

Forced to purchase a new door after a blind date reportedly entered the house last year, the men of Sigma Phi Epsilon have refused to make such errors this year and the bright red door beckons for all to enter.

Held high in the hearts of the Home Management House girls, the Sig Eps spend a great deal of time shoveling snow, washing walls and keeping up the spirits of these girls. Founded on this campus in March, 1903, the Sig Ep's were very happy to have their candidate reign as Men's Panhellenic Queen. Their philanthropy project is giving aid to the National Heart Foundation, and their Golden Heart Ball held each May is a climax to the fraternity's social season.

After the Tau Kappa Epsilon's national founding at Illinois, Rho Chapter arrived on West Virginia University's campus in 1923. With the IFC treasurer in their house, the TKE's are reported one of the most financially sound chapters on campus. Presiding on Spruce Street, the TKE's open their doors to the Greeks during Greek Week End, have an annual Christmas Party, and close the year with their Red Carnation Spring Formal.

ESTABLISHED 1921

Alpha Kappa of Theta Chi fraternity was first organized on this campus on February 8, 1921. The chapter prospered until 1935, at which time it went inactive. On April 2, 1949, Alpha Kappa again received its active charter largely through the efforts of a few Theta Chi men who transferred to West Virginia University from other colleges. For the last twelve years, Theta Chi has been a growing organization on the campus. In addition to full participation in various campus activities including athletics, social functions, student government, and scholastics, the brothers of Alpha Kappa strive to follow their motto, "Alma Mater first, Theta Chi for Alma Mater."

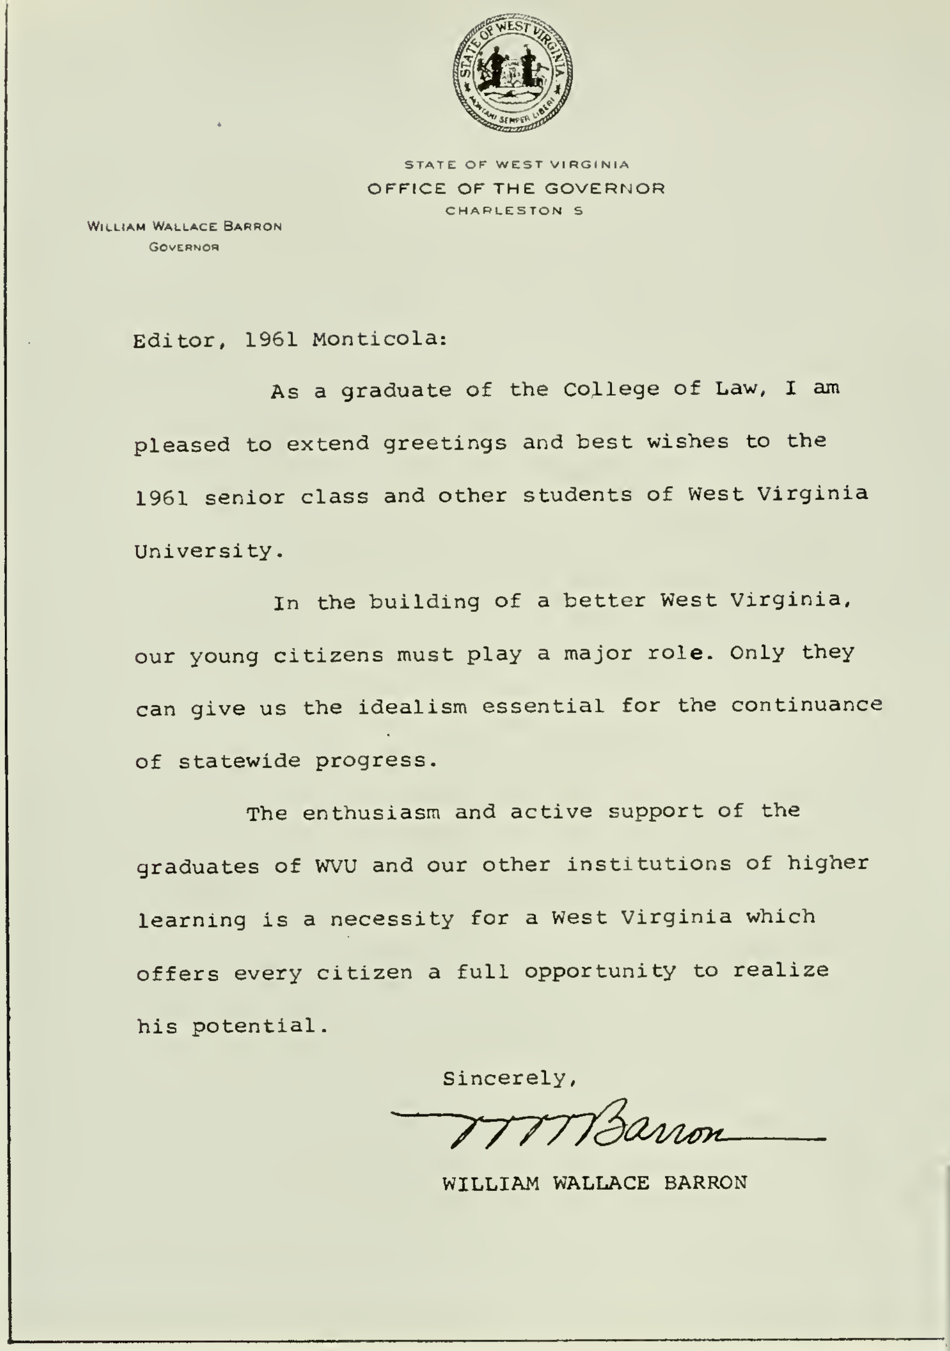
ALL FACES



STATE OF WEST VIRGINIA
OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR
CHARLESTON 5

WILLIAM WALLACE BARRON
GOVERNOR

Editor, 1961 Monticola:

As a graduate of the College of Law, I am pleased to extend greetings and best wishes to the 1961 senior class and other students of West Virginia University.

In the building of a better West Virginia, our young citizens must play a major role. Only they can give us the idealism essential for the continuance of statewide progress.

The enthusiasm and active support of the graduates of WVU and our other institutions of higher learning is a necessity for a West Virginia which offers every citizen a full opportunity to realize his potential.

Sincerely,

WWBarron

WILLIAM WALLACE BARRON

GOVERNOR

PRESIDENT

TO THE CLASS OF 1961:

You are going forth from the University much more mature and far better educated than when you came here. You are going forth into a State, a nation and a world which need mature and educated people as never before. Your education will never be complete, but on this campus you have had the opportunity to acquire a great deal of knowledge and understanding and the tools with which to pursue your education on your own initiative through the long future. As University graduates, you will have special opportunities and responsibilities: as professional men and women serving your fellow man, as leading citizens in a dynamic democracy, as parents and homemakers, and as individual men and women capable of developing highly and enjoying richly your God-given qualities of spirit and intellect. May you realize all of these potentials to the fullest.

You have reached this milestone in your lives with the aid of countless people, most of whom you have never even seen. Some are great men who have been dead for decades or even centuries; some are plain citizens of West Virginia who have paid taxes without which the University would have had to close its doors; some are dedicated teachers at whose feet you have sat both here and before coming here; some are parents who have aided and encouraged you, and some are your fellow students. To all of these you owe in some measure a very real obligation, which can best repay by making intelligent and unselfish use of the education you have received and by maintaining a never-ceasing interest in your Alma Mater, giving her your loyalty and support so that she may continue to make possible for those who come after you what she has made possible for you.

Much of the credit, however, for your achievement thus far belongs to you, and I commend you most warmly for the efforts you have expended. As you go forth, the University's blessings and best wishes go with you.

Sincerely,
Elvis J. Stahr, Jr.
President

TIMEWASTERS

"Your deal again, Harry." "You know that we've been playing since 9:00 this morning?"

"Yeah," comes a comment from across the table, "I just cut a Nuclear Physics final."

"That's nothing," returns a voice to the left, "last year I cut Commencement Exercises just because I had a string of ten-four bid hands."

The above excerpt from a bridge table somewhere in a room, or lounge, can be taken as the general rule for that campus-instituted friendship known as the "time wasters."

Many a college-educated person can recall the cherished hours spent in deep concentration over a bridge table carefully displaying the creed as taught by the Apostle of the Art, Goren. Cautious to the irretrievable error of being underbid, the points mount up as the clock ticks on throughout the grey of the evening, finally erupting into the orange and red hues of morning.

Several methods are employed in the skillful practice of the sport of the intellect. One approach is the mixed-crowd method where the only additional rule is the unwritten one concerning table talk. In all stag games, played at many fraternity houses, dormitories, and local pubs, almost anything goes; and occasionally a fine brew proves a zestful aid to the pleasure of the game. Enough said, "Shuffle 'em Harry—we ain't got all night."

Seldom in a big University-type institution does the minor sport achieve its proper recognition from a social, economical and political standpoint in the sports world. All too often its the big athletic star who finds himself the recipient of campus worship and praise, while the small-time athlete, often just as capable, must be content to sneak around campus with his letter sweater hidden under his mackinaw. Otherwise he faces slander and immediate campus ostracism by students who, upon spying his sweater, begin to size him up for those dominant characteristics so typical of the modern athlete. His fault lies in the fact that he does show these characteristics. The resulting confusion that floods over the faces must be interpreted as puzzlement—yes, even stark astonishment.

Among the lesser recognized minor sports of the University is Beaver Shooting. In recent years, according to beaver-shooting sources, the participating membership has increased its viewing membership by some tenfold. But the disgusting fact is that the beaver shooter must resign himself to anonymity, else he runs the risk of possibly heavy fines or jail sentences sure to carry him past the draft age. The point we're trying to get across to the reader is that the modern campus sports-conscious (or unconscious)-minded student does not care to put life, limb and voting privileges in jeopardy for the small amount of recognition that society affords him.

Shooters have resigned themselves to the privacy of darkness and the seclusion of deserted hillsides and sidewalks. Daytime shooting has, however, risen to heights alone surpassed by outer space stunt jumping and Bryano wrestling.

Hear our pleas of posterity—return beaver shooting to its proper rank in sporting, free-loving youthful hearts.

PARTIES

Sometimes the most fun on campus is at parties. Other times certain rather inconspicuously insignificant incidents have a nasty way of creeping into the social scene. Consider the ancient custom, now a habit of metabolic necessity—excretion. Now not that the college of today must bear the brunt of such derelict research, because it is essentially the same as other facets of life—no matter where the old machine operates, how are you going to keep the thing running if you don't change the oil?

Regardless of the frivolity that might underly this social discussion, still underlying the majority of the University parties in this deep sense of thought and intellectual probing. For instance you're at a party, the band is playing a rocking tune, you turn to her and say something on the order of this: "Shall we?" and then it hits you—that urge; you quickly cover the embarrassment by saying something like this: "Never mind, dear, I'd better do it alone."

Some social groups have realized the expense (in attempting to get that second date) and have organized party themes around this one of man's most natural urges. Consider for a moment a typical party—the Sewer Party. It does have its advantages, it's not expensive and requires very little decoration, maybe a magazine rack or some Sears and Roebuck catalogues strewn around. Thus let it be never spoken more loudly that no problem ever braced the winds with a more fervent motive than those surrounding the social set and its PARTIES.

The bell that sounds out, indicating that the professor should cease with the noisemaking and nonsensical dictating, has taken upon the modern college generation a psychological effect of creating the unquenchable thirst for that mid-morning cup of coffee. Actually there are those students whose very survival throughout the day leans heavily upon getting that eye-opening shot of java at the midway point between brushing their teeth and lunch—midmorning.

Consider this case in point of Acne Smith, a Technical major who spends a great deal of time in expulsion of religious dynamics from various locals of study where perchance lie some demons. Every morning he gets up in a dead run. He runs to the restaurant for breakfast, trotting around the counter until he has inhaled his poached egg; then he runs to class. He runs, runs everywhere; and when he isn't running, his face is. The first time he stops is, you guessed it, seated around the coffee table at the 'Lair or Jimmie's.

Yet despite the strain and turmoil of a turbulent campus, which embraces every activity from Beethoven to basketball, biochemistry to beaver shooting, and worshipping to watercoloring, nothing offers the busy student a better opportunity to stop and enjoy a hallowed moment than the coffee break.

"THREE TOO MANY?"

For some, defeat leaves an unsurmountable efflorescence of bad taste in their mouths. Campus drinking has become the folly of the intellectually-minded inebriate, to say the least; but the discourse upon the growing art and the new rumor in current college circles that it may replace green stamps has become more than just a sidelight to the American College Male and Female.

Yea, though hard it is for us to admit, there are some prominent women who have been known to take a "sociable nip." Centuries ago, during the "Roaring Twenties," the Missy set of the college circle took that big step (or should we say sip) forward, and it has known nothing but good times since.

Just as cake and ice cream, somnambulism and Maidenform ads, so the gridiron sport of football has become synonymous with the sideline's pastime of chugging good brews.

The serious-minded student doesn't allow his extracurricular habits to overrule the possibility of tipping a few cool ones. He is eager to channel his newly found talent into such organizations as youth fellowship clubs, and the newest of dedicated drinkers clubs—"The Tippers Club."

So we must bow to the facts as they are, starkly cold and encouraging as they do appear to us, the modern college critics. We must also resign ourselves to the fate that there will be those who tend to overwork elbow-bending exercise—the one from table top to lips—and who eventually leave the realism of academic quest and escape to the utopia of peace and quiet. To these prone figures, whether stretched over window sills or along a stadium bench calling the tigers, we ask: "three, or three too many?"

Wherever three good men shall join together, let no man put asunder their wills to win. For this will to win comprises the driving force that keeps college men ever willing to enter into the athletic competitive fields of contest. Yea, it is upon these fields of contest where the most worthy contestant is chosen from a galley of running mates—the athlete so designated by our society as—CHAMPION.

Let us digress from this medieval prose and think for a moment not of the worthiness of winning, but the goals. Twentieth-centurians have realized that man can no longer be hoaxed into risking life, limb, and active pin for the GRAND OLD GAME. This rather minute obstruction to the progress of the G.O.G. has been eliminated by offering the contestants certain trinkets of worldly goods, often not much of monetary value, but many a mantel has been improved (and fraternity egos as well) by the presence of a host of trophies.

The real value of these trophies comes later when they take on a greater significance and usefulness. Some of the most expensive ash trays and spittoons in colleges of today were once presented to an exhausted individual in track sweat pants. Now we can understand the evolution of trophies from tokens of victory to practical value. Some even have become so practical as to insist that the engraving be Men's Room or Ladies' Room instead of to the individual, with the once typical captions such as for honor and glory forever amen; for outstanding and meritorious service; for first place (here simplicity is the keynote); and of course the caption "I love thee," designed specifically for loving cups.

Included with these gleaming relics of past glory are objects of sentimental value such as goal posts, beer mugs, and women's unmentionables, prized as trophies for the cherished memories contained of many a hard-fought gridiron contest, chugging match, or panty raid. Yet within these confines, probably the most fought-for and most unique trophy was in the form of sixty feet of sewer pipe known in some circles as a mast.

CAMPUS POLITICS

Campus politics, although greatly sought by many students, does have its moments of defeat for half of the participants. Usually the scramble for the various positions begins as soon as the stutent comes to campus as a freshman. There are various avenues of political service and activity. Some students choose program activities such as the Mountainlair and various religious foundations such as Newman Club, others seek their climb to the top of campus politics through our Greek letter societies, but most students find that the surest road is that of serving on some of our more vital and on-going committees. Though Student Government runs a close second to Buildings and Grounds when it comes to manufacturing fulfilled planks in a platform, many students find their college years to be richer and happier because of political participation. Campus politics do not benefit the campus so much; the people who receive the real benefit are those who participate in these activities.

There are several stages that the campus politician must pass through if he is to be successful. First, he plays the role of the naive, hard-working freshman whose main duty is to speak to all the upperclass politicians and to act grateful for any small political job that may be thrown his way. In the second stage, after landing on some committees, he must play the role of the moderately successful collegian who lingers on the brink of greatness saved by nothing else than his genuine briar pipe and his Princeton haircut. The final stage is that of the benevolent despot who honors the student body and various organizations throughout the state with the joy of his sacred presence. Usually he is too busy to be there, but finds a few spare moments to crowd a particular engagement in. Whether he is kissing a runner-up or the Queen of the Buckwheat, he presides with dignity even though he can't help showing that he is a campus politician.

Were you ever the victim of a soup line?

Consider for a moment the plight of the poor college freshman who has the misfortune of having been accustomed to quite delectable dishes at home. Then he registers at the University and at once becomes the delegated guinea pig of a million and one Betty Crockerless cooking mistakes.

All right, we will concede that the dorm food offers the student a wide variety. Granted, the dorm is the only beanery in town where man can sit down to a main course of chili, ham salad sandwiches, fruit salad with mayonnaise, and follow this array of edibles with spaghetti. For dessert is offered squash, stuffed with creamed watermelon seeds. Occasionally the student finds himself not only the benefactor of a table of free desserts, but also the winner of the daily kitchen prize. Usually it varies, but the winner can count on either a long dark hair, or a cigarette butt for a remembrance of an adventure in terrible eating.

Now the forces that govern the eating conditions must have long ago heard the table comments of their tribulations, and have followed steps to curb these comments. The result is a camouflage on the menu card. For example, on Tuesdays the menu card very legibly states that for lunch there will be Sarasota Potatoes, served with California Stewed Earl of Cornsville. In the more common circles of community restaurants this is known as HASH.

And yet above all of this hubbub and nausea the intellectual mind must call upon his spiritual conscience to the straining point—bending over backwards to avoid the proverbial lightning as he actually must return thanks for this cultured miscarriage of pots and pans.

MORGANTOWN STREETS . . .

It sometimes clearly appears why Morgantown was chosen to house a great University. The student driver (especially in recent days) actually needs the facilities of four years of academic quests into deep fields of cultivated intellectual studies. Some might even be so blunt as to say that one needs a college education to figure out the current direction of the streets.

Part of the blame for this miscarriage of public works is the underlying fact that the employees sometime try too hard. We wouldn't be so bold as to suggest that this is due to a futileness stemming from a lack of education; but the psychological implications lends some assumption upon the issue.

One might happen to pass the on-the-job headquarters of the current north-south highway project to be constructed between Men's Hall and the Snack Shack restaurant. On the drawing board one might find scribbled, dig up to about 498 paces from Willey and then turn right—but the right is blurred so as to offer to the imagination just whether or not the project is to make a right or left turn. Then the paper sums it by saying: dig like crazy until you see the hole in the pipe that was reported to my office. These instructions are signed, "affectionately, your Mayor."

Still this mess can be of an educational value if applied properly. Personally, one never realized the B.S. that must echo through the lecture halls of the Engineering building until the sewer line burst. Don't be so quick to snicker, Chi Omegas.

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS

Like the proverbial cat which can be skinned by innumerable methods, so are the countless uses for which campus publications can be facilitated.

The students should feel a great deal of pride that their campus paper doesn't run such leads as: WESTOVER RESIDENT APPOINTED TO YOUTH FELLOWSHIP POST. Rather our paper chooses to call to the attention of the reader with earth-shaking boldness the fact that amid the current world crisis, problems concerning the French and the Algerians, to cite a more benevolent move than any other newspaper in America, the headline read: FRENCH AND ALGERIANS TO PARLAY. Honestly worthy editors and proofreaders, must we have such rival forces drawing away from the conference tables of disarming negotiations to wile away an afternoon wagering bets among the leaders.

No siree, not that we're against gambling. This school was founded on a gamble. Actually the government decided it was better to risk a small investment in the wilds of western Virginia rather than to let Johnny Appleseed litter the countryside with apples.

And then upon the board of governors the dice were cast—victorious—and a newspaper was born. Certainly the reporting has been improved by utilizing such news leads as when the President of the United States is inaugurated and when the abolishment of compulsory ROTC is challenged; or when a Sabraton citizen learns to read. (If he could write he'd have a job on the publication.)

Yet, members of that cold-seated clan of outdoor-users, keep in mind that in the footsteps of the New York Times and Sears and Roebuck Catalogues come the modern way—the student publications.

"WVU'S ANSWER TO LUTHER BURBANK"

No more of any man can society ask than his complete service in preserving some remnant from the fading present for posterity. Such a man is the University Caretaker and News commentator, "Pittsburgh."

Nary is the time when the inquisitive student can find answer to his question. "Pittsburgh" radiates with a glowing intellect of current world happenings. His immediate knowledge which can be called upon for exhortation by merely walking by or by an askew glance over the shoulder at his stooped figure retrieving a stray leaf from his basket. More often than not the student has had call to fulfill his questioned mind by tip-toeing by the stately figure in cap and brown suede jacket. WHY? Because this modern Socrates may be lecturing to the breeze of the great mysteries of his early childhood and the once-questionable fate of the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball team.

Oh, there are many groundsmen, dedicated souls that they are, but few match the subtle genius of Pittsburgh. At the drop of his grass-stained cap he will tell you why the Pirates are going to beat the Yankees. His statement that shocked the sports news enterprises with its brashness resounded throughout the newspapers of America to anxiously waiting readers—"Pittsburgh will win 'cause I like Pittsburgh. Yankees won't win, I don't like Yankees.

HAYMOND V. SUMMERS; Sophomore; Summersville.

Emotion stirs within our throats as we are racing to a final exam, or to see the scholarship board, when suddenly we see before us the glowing radiance of Morgantown's missionary to campus lost souls —Psalms "John 3:16" Overblower. We stop in our tracks and marvel at the wisdom of his chanting words, then we shudder at the thought of perishing in that big bonfire at the Eternal Thuse that he speaks of. We approach still closer and see the students kneeling before snow-covered fenders of the parked cars or reverently grasping parking meters.

We listen to his awe-filled words chanted over and over; then just as we are about to leave after the fourteenth repetition of his sermon, his voice suddenly takes on a most mechanical-sounding tone as he finishes his sermon with these words—"this is a recording."

Truly the religious aspects of the modern college today have become a mere repetition of ancient Biblical cliches, now deadened to reason. It seems inspiring that in this sinful era such a man should step forth and say a few words of testimony in hell-raising manner at all sinners and doomed souls to "Hell's-fire and Damnation," and yet he rises above the ignorance of his heartstrings and offers to save any soul. Psalms continually lives as testimony to the fact that he doesn't hide his "candle under a bushel."

Though he preaches out of the Good Book with his eyes closed, verily we say unto you that few missionaries ever invade a more wicked island than our own "Pselms."

THE SUITCASE STUDENT

Friday afternoons usually finds two types of students predominating the campus. Those with thirsty looks and rapid steps, usually following a path from living quarters to various pubs for the more social and enlightening aspects of college life. The other type is the suitcase student. In many respects these two are very much alike.

Around the middle of the week you can find the TIGFer usually calling up coeds on the phone, playing the role of the planner, while his counterpart also begins early in the week searching for a ride home.

There are various reasons why these two types of individuals choose the paths that they do. Consider for a moment that picture on their desks. If she's a real looker, or shows evidence of that "hooked look" then you can be sure that there's a week-end engagement issuing from those smiling lips. However, the party-goer usually either sports a picture of a real shoat (usually a fix-up of his sister's "Y" judo instructor), definitely armed forces material (front lines we mean), or else he has no picture at all. It's better that he has one, though, since the face will keep up his spirits studying the idiocy of it, or else send him to the pubs with alcoholism and bachelorhood on his free mind.

Never underestimate the power of the suitcase student. Elements, nor final exams, nor poker parties can sway his motivations to return to the home nest. Some highway gladiators of the numb thumb corps never even unpack their bags. This can become quite gruesome especially when the boundary between the dirty clothes ends and the starched whites become questionable. Oh, well, it does no good to argue with those week-end commuters; we'll even take them to the outskirts of Morgantown to catch that cherished lift.

Ever meet a Doubting Thomas?

A college senior once remarked to a Bell System interviewer: "A telephone career must be a mirage. I hear talk about fabulous training, fascinating work, grade-A job security, and rapid advancement in management. Sounds a bit too rosy. What's the real story?"

The interviewer knew mere talk wouldn't sell a skeptic. So he showed him some "profiles" of recent college graduates who had enjoyed that fabulous training, had worked at intriguing jobs, and had won early management promotions.

Our once-skeptical friend has been with the Bell System 3 years now—and is currently supervising the work of 55 other telephone people.

We've converted a host of Doubting Thomases. Whether doubtful or not, you'll learn a lot about rewarding telephone careers by talking with our interviewer when he visits your campus. Also read the Bell Telephone booklet on file in your Placement Office.

"YOU CANNOT SURPASS AMERICAN GLASS"

OUR
Ever-Present
CHALLENGE

The prosperity and individual freedoms we enjoy today are hard-earned gifts from our forefathers and must never be taken for granted.

Each new generation must stand on its own feet and preserve these freedoms.

The freedoms we enjoy through the American Way have a high price and must be earned over and over.

W. Somerset Maughan expresses it this way: "If a nation values anything more than freedom, it will lose its freedom; and the irony of it is that if it is comfort or money that it values more, it will lose that, too."
